LOCAL HISTORY

Pay of $30 a week for six days of work, arbitrary firings, salary cuts, and ridiculous schedules. That's what brought the Guild to the newsrooms of Toronto in the Dirty Thirties. And since then, SONG has been working hard to get a better deal first for newspaper and now for all media employees.

It seems odd now, but in the 1930's, working Canadians looked south of the border when they wanted strong, dynamic and progressive union representation. For news industry employees, the obvious choice was the American Newspaper Guild, founded in 1933 by a man who was then one of the most well-known columnists in North America, Heywood Broun.

While skilled craft workers such as printers and press operators had long been organized at most major papers, the union idea was new to reporters, editors, advertising sales staff, and circulation and clerical workers.

But a small group of Toronto newsroom workers — many of them women, who were only a small minority of editorial staffers in those days — brought the American Newspaper Guild to Canada in September 1936 with the daunting task of organizing the newsrooms of the four Toronto dailies then publishing.

The new local was called the Toronto Newspaper Guild, Local 87 of the ANG, and its first decade was largely a story of failure. With legal protections weak, publishers were able to get away with subtle and not-so-subtle pressure tactics in order to prevent unions from taking root.

Even at the Toronto Daily Star, known as a friend of labour (and founded by striking printers in the 1890s) an attempt in the early 40s to negotiate a contract collapsed after the company demoted known union supporters and engaged in the kind of blatant intimidation that is outlawed today.

The ANG revoked the charter of the Toronto local in 1943.

The First Contract

But the need and desire for a union didn't die. In 1948, the Toronto Newspaper Guild was resurrected and was able to demonstrate majority support in the Star newsroom.

That meant it could be certified by the Ontario Labour Relations Board under newly enacted labour laws, with the result that the company was obliged to bargain with the union.

The new union's first president was Beland Honderich, later to become publisher and part-owner of the Star. Honderich set the tone for this new union when he wrote in the first issue of the local union's newsletter: "We are now trade unionists...members of that great body of men and women who have been striving for years to improve the living standards of Canadian workers...A union, if it is to be successful, must be representative...it must be democratic..."

Those goals continue to motivate this union.

After several months of bargaining, the Guild's first contract in Toronto and indeed the first ANG contract in Canada was signed in April, 1949, containing the milestone pay rate of $80 a week for reporters/photographers with five years of experience.

The Star proclaimed itself on its news pages as the “first newspaper in Canada to establish the five-day, 40-hour week for editorial employees...it now becomes the first and only Toronto daily newspaper to pay its editorial workers time-and-a-half in cash for overtime.”

The Guild was on its way. By 1953, the newsroom of the Toronto Telegram (a paper which eventually folded in 1971) was under Guild contract, and the Globe and Mail followed two years later. At the same time, other departments at the Star followed the newsroom into the union, so that the Guild soon represented advertising sales staff, circulation employees, delivery drivers and accounting clerks totaling almost 1300 members.

Other early Guild papers in Ontario were the Toronto edition of the Daily Racing Form, and the Brantford Expositor, whose mid-1950s unionization marked the local's first foray outside Toronto. Employees made major gains in wages, benefits and working conditions in those early years, and were generally able to do it without having to resort to strike action.

The first strike in the young local's history took place at the Racing Form in July of 1951. It lasted all of 30 minutes. All 13 members went on strike when the employer refused to implement wage increases that had been negotiated. They returned to work with guarantees that all members would get their increases and they did.

The First Strike

When the Guild's first major strike came, it was at a small paper, and it was a messy one.

Employees at the Thomson-owned Oshawa Times walked out in 1966 in a two-week strike that became one of the biggest Canadian labour battles of the era. While the strike involved only 35 employees, the courts granted a controversial injunction limiting picketing.

That prompted a rebellion in the strong union town, and picket lines swelled to more than 1,000 with the support of other unions.

When the local sheriff showed up to try to enforce the injunction, he was pelted with snowballs and beat a hasty retreat.

Newspaper publishers were outraged, but the strike was settled soon after. A second strike in Oshawa was also long and difficult in 1995 and created the local union's first strike paper operating in competition with the Times. At the end of the strike neither paper survived.

In 1955 the young local union had to confront the loss of one of its early activists and a former president A.O. (Alf) Tate, a Star photographer who was killed in a work accident. Tate and reporter Doug Cronk were assigned to report on a hurricane off the coast of Florida when their plane went missing. Their bodies were never found.

The union honoured Tate by creating a journalism scholarship in his name. Originally, the scholarship was awarded to a needy grade 11 student who demonstrated ability and was selected by the Toronto School Board. Today the local maintains the A.O. Tate scholarship for a journalism student at Ryerson University in Toronto.

Fred Jones followed Tate as local union president. Jones left the local to work for the international union as a Canadian representative where he continued to work with local 87.

He later returned to the local as Executive Secretary. His contribution to the union has also been recognized with an internal award. Every year a local activist is granted an educational subsidy in Jones' honour.

Co-operation between the Guild and other newspaper unions was one of the keys to the gains at the Toronto dailies in the 1950s, but the solidarity was strained in the wake of a disastrous strike by the printers (members of the International Typographical Union) in 1964. The printers at all three dailies took a stand against technological change, but Guild members continued working, and the papers continued publishing with the help of strikebreakers. The unionized printers never went back to work.

Growth in the 60s, 70s

The late '60s and the 1970s were a more stable period for the union, as the Guild settled into perhaps a too-cosy relationship with the newspaper companies. Organizing of new groups was given little priority. The union, recognizing it was more than just a Toronto organization, changed its name in the late 70s to Southern Ontario Newspaper Guild, but made no serious effort to expand.

The parent union, recognizing it had members outside the United States, changed its name from American Newspaper Guild to The Newspaper Guild. The early 1970s also saw the first major stirrings of Canadian nationalism within the union, as the Toronto Guild pressed with only minimal success for more Canadian autonomy within the international structure.

The local also had stable leadership through these years. Jack Dobson of the Globe and Mail served 8 terms as local president from 1959 through 1966 when he resigned to become a local union staff representative. Later, John Lowe of the Star led the union for 9 terms from 1976 through 1984. While a woman was not president until 1989 when Gail Lem was first elected, women played a key role in the union and its executive from the earliest days.

Star reporter Judith Robinson was part of the 1939 organizing committee and women like Lillian Thain and Nadia Bozinoff also of the Star, Isabel Greenwood and Jean Pakenham of the Telegram and Margaret Daly of the Star all made fundamental contributions to the union's successes.

The 1980s saw a shakeup at SONG, as new officers were elected with a mandate to organize more workplaces and take a more aggressive approach to negotiations.

At the bargaining table this new approach saw the Guild's first strike ever at the Toronto Star, in 1983. The 1,500 SONG members were off the job for only four days, including a weekend, but the strike marked a turning point, and companies got the message that they couldn't take the union for granted.

Meanwhile at the Globe and Mail, Guild employees took their first ever strike vote in 1982, also marking a new era in relations with the company. Those negotiations ended without a strike, and the Globe unit of SONG still has a strike-free record.

Organizing took off in the early '80s, with the Hamilton Spectator newsroom joining SONG and with the landmark organizing drive at Maclean's magazine, where editorial staff went on strike for two weeks in 1983 and gained their first contract. Maclean's part-time employees joined the union in 2005 and these two groups represent the only unionized operations in the Rogers Publishing empire. The Globe and Mail's outside circulation department and advertising staff also went union.

With those successes, news industry workers saw the benefits of unionization. By the mid-80s, editorial employees at the Metroland chain of non-daily papers joined SONG and bargained a contract that is seen as the pace-setter in the community newspaper sector. Soon employees of other non-dailies sought out SONG, and the union was expanding rapidly.

In the late 1980's, two of the largest non-union newsrooms in the province — the London Free Press and Kitchener-Waterloo Record — joined SONG. This was followed by organizing at a number of small Thomson-owned papers. Following long and bitter — but successful — first-contract strikes at Thomson papers in Guelph and Cambridge, SONG was able to organize employees at Thomson outlets in Belleville, Chatham, Niagara Falls and Midland. Contracts at all these papers made major improvements in wages.

The 1980's also saw a move for the Guild offices to its current home at 1253 Queen St. E., just east of Leslie St. In 1984, SONG purchased the two-storey former Target air conditioning and heating contractor building for $170,000. With the rapid expansion of membership and units, the former quarters on the ground floor and basement of a townhouse at 219 Jarvis St. had become cramped.

Despite layoffs and hiring freezes at many papers during the 1990s, SONG's membership continued to grow through organizing.

Going Canadian

Throughout the period of expansion in the 1990's, the leadership of SONG became increasingly frustrated with the lack of attention and service that the Newspaper Guild's Washington head office was providing to Canadians. After a long and unsuccessful campaign for more Canadian autonomy within the Guild international, SONG members voted in 1994 to sever ties with The Newspaper Guild. Shortly afterwards, SONG affiliated with the Communications, Energy and Paperworkers Union of Canada (CEP), an all-Canadian union and Canada's largest media union.

The Guild and the Star again did battle in 1992 during a one-month strike over the company's plans to contract-out its delivery department. The strike failed to stop the company's plans, but got a better deal for the laid-off employees.

In 1996, SONG's long-time president, Gail Lem of the Globe and Mail unit, was elected as the CEP's national vice-president of media, the top officer for the CEP's 15,000-strong media section, representing employees in print and broadcast across Canada. She was followed in that post by Peter Murdoch who is a former Hamilton Spectator reporter and SONG representative.

Despite restrictive labour laws passed by the Conservative government elected in Ontario in 1995, SONG has continued to organize, bringing in employees of ethnic community newspapers at Sing Tao Daily, Share, the Korea Times and the World Journal. In early 2002 a further 350 employees of the London Free Press chose union representation with SONG.

Their Quebecor cousins in the Toronto Sun newsroom joined up in early 2003, followed closely by the Local's first broadcasting bargaining units at CHUM's New PL/WI/NX now known as the A Channel and Corus. Soon after pre-press employees at the Toronto Sun and editorial employees at the Ottawa Sun chose SONG.

In addition, employees at the Stratford Beacon Herald and the Simcoe Reformer and the free daily Metro have joined SONG. By 2004, the Local represented media workers in newspapers, magazines, book publishing, television and specialty broadcasting, radio and internet: in recognition of this diversity, we changed the name of our Local to the Southern Ontario Newsmedia Guild.

Expanding Beyond Southern Ontario

In 2008, SONG expanded in a big way to the Ottawa area where we'd already organized the Ottawa Sun.

Beginning in January, 2008, we added seven media units from the former Local 102-O, including the House of Commons broadcast/technical group, the Ottawa Citizen mailroom, the Winchester Press, the Glengarry News, the Pembroke Observer and the audio-video units, TelAv and ELC.

The organizing continued with the addition of the Sarnia Observer editorial department in late 2008. In 2010 both the Metroland Ottawa and the Chinese-language Ming Pao units were added. Ming Pao workers didn't get their first contract, however, until 2012 following a strike and government-ordered first contract arbitration.

Despite the organizing efforts of Locals like 87M, the national union during the first decade of the 21st Century suffered major membership declines due to the effect of globalization and the 2009 financial crisis. Many jobs in the heavily-unionized manufacturing sector were outsourced to low-wage countries in Asia. This led to merger discussions between CEP and the Canadian Auto Workers which was consummated with the creation of a new union, Unifor, on Aug. 31, 2013. Unifor instantly became the largest private-sector union in Canada and a formidable force for worker rights and social justice.

With the merger, CEP Local 87M became Unifor Local 87M. We now represents almost 3,000 workers in all aspects of the media in Ontario and 34 different workplaces. The local and its members confront daily issues of media concentration, editorial integrity, contracting out, job security, pensions and the declining circulation of paid daily newspapers.

The local has had, and continues to have, success in supporting its members on these issues because of the willingness of members to volunteer their time and use their energy and creativity. Some take time from their careers to work full-time as local president or on local staff. In addition, the local has been well served by the dedication of its staff hired from outside the membership. Men and women who have spent countless hours in the negotiation and administration of collective agreements and ensuring the infrastructure of the local functioned on a day-today basis.

ARTICLE 3 - UNION REPRESENTATION

- 3.01 Upon notification in writing by the Union, the Employer will recognize a reasonable number of stewards to service grievances in the manner provided under this Agreement.
- 3.02 The Union agrees that stewards and Union executive committee members have their regular work to perform on behalf of the Employer, and in recognition of that, neither a steward nor an executive committee member will leave his regular duties to, in the case of a steward, service a grievance or, in the case of an executive committee member, attend a meeting with the Employer without first obtaining permission from his or her supervisor, which will not be unreasonably withheld. Stewards and executive committee members shall advise their supervisors of the expected length of absence from duties and report to them upon their return to work.
- 3.03 Stewards and executive committee members who do not absent themselves from regular duties unreasonably will be compensated at their regular salary plus applicable shift differential for time spent in attending meetings with the Employer (other than negotiation meetings) and in servicing grievances up to but not including arbitration.

- 3.04 The Employer shall allow up to three (3) employees plus the Unit Chair time off to attend meetings with the Employer for the purpose of negotiating a renewal of this Collective Agreement. The Employer also will grant the Union bargaining committee reasonable time off to prepare for negotiations, provided reasonable notice is given. When such time off is granted, the Employer will continue to pay bargaining committee members their regular salaries plus applicable shift differentials and the Union agrees to reimburse the Employer for this expense.
- 3.05 The Employer shall continue to provide the Union with its present bulletin board space and shall provide another site should the space disappear because of physical alteration of the workplace or a change in location of the workplace.

ARTICLE 4 - MANAGEMENT RIGHTS

- 4.01 The Union agrees that it is the exclusive right of the Employer to manage its business in every respect and, without restricting the generality of the foregoing, to plan, direct and control its operations, systems, publications, procedures including the manner in which and by whom work shall be done and to maintain order and efficiency and to hire, transfer, classify, appoint, promote, lay off and recall employees and to suspend, demote, discharge or otherwise discipline employees for just cause. The Employer agrees that it shall exercise these rights and powers in a fair and reasonable manner.
- 4.02 The Employer agrees that the exercise of these rights and powers in conflict with any of the provisions of this Agreement shall be subject to the provisions of the grievance procedure.
- 4.03 The Employer shall not normally assign to any editorial manager any work done by employees within the bargaining unit. In addition to the foregoing, the occasional performance of bargaining unit work by an editorial manager shall not cause a layoff of a bargaining unit employee. Non-editorial managers and staff shall not perform bargaining unit work.

For clarity, in the event of a layoff of an employee, this paragraph shall not prevent an editorial manager from continuing to do bargaining unit work to the extent such type of work was being performed prior to the layoff.

ARTICLE 5 - NO STRIKE, NO LOCKOUT

- 5.01 The Employer agrees that during the term of this Agreement there will be no lockout as defined by the Labour Relations Act. The Union agrees that during the term of this Agreement there will be no strike as defined by the Labour Relations Act.

ARTICLE 6 - GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

6.01 An employee shall have the right to grieve any complaint arising from the application, interpretation, administration or alleged violation of this Agreement. It is understood that nothing contained in this Article is intended to preclude the informal discussion and review of employee concerns or complaints between employees and members of management. No employee shall have a grievance until the employee, with the assistance of a Union representative if so desired, has given his or her immediate supervisor an opportunity to resolve the complaint.

STEP 1

6.02 It is the mutual desire of the parties hereto that grievances of employees be adjusted as quickly as possible and it is understood that if an employee has a grievance, it shall be discussed with his or her supervisor within thirty (30) days of when the circumstances giving rise to the grievance were known or should reasonably have been known to the grievor in order to give the supervisor an opportunity of adjusting the grievance. The discussion shall be between the employee and/or the Union steward and the supervisor, but the supervisor may elect to have the assistance of another person. The supervisor's response to the grievance shall be given within seven (7) days after such discussion.

STEP 2

6.03 Failing settlement, the grievance may be taken up in the following manner and sequence provided it is presented within fifteen (15) days of the supervisor's reply to the grievance: The Union shall present the grievance in writing signed by the employee, in the case of an individual grievance, to the Editor-in-Chief, or designate, setting forth the nature of the grievance, and the remedy sought. The Editor-in-Chief or designate shall arrange a meeting with the Union within seven (7) days of the receipt of the grievance at which the grievor, in the case of an individual grievance, may attend, if requested by either party, and discuss the grievance. The Editor-in-Chief or designate may have such assistance at the meeting as is considered necessary. The Editor-in-Chief or designate will give the Union a decision in writing within seven (7) days following the meeting with a copy to the grievor.

6.04 In the event the grievance has not been satisfactorily settled under the foregoing Grievance Procedure, the matter shall then, by notice in writing given to the Employer within thirty (30) days of the date of the decision from the Editor-in-Chief or designate, be referred to arbitration as hereinafter provided.

6.05 Any matter so referred to arbitration, including any question as to whether a matter is arbitrable, shall be heard by an independent arbitrator. The notice of the party referring the decision to arbitration shall contain the names of three (3) neutral persons, any one of whom it is prepared to accept as Arbitrator. The recipient of the notice shall within fourteen (14) days advise the other party of either its acceptance of one of the proposed persons as the Arbitrator or shall suggest the names of other neutral persons it proposes to act as Arbitrator. If the recipient of the notice fails to respond, or if the two (2) parties fail to agree upon a neutral person to act as Arbitrator, within the time limits, the appointment shall be made by the Minister of Labour upon the request of either party. The Arbitrator shall hear and determine the matter and shall issue a decision. The decision shall be final and binding upon the parties and upon any employee affected by it.

- 6.06 Either party may, in the correspondence contemplated under Article 6.05 notify the other party of its suggestion to proceed before a Board of Arbitration. Provided both parties agree, an Arbitrator selected in accordance with articles 6.05 shall be appointed as chair of the Arbitration Board. Each party shall be responsible for naming its own nominee to the Arbitration Board and will advise the other party and the Chair of the name of its nominee ten (10) days prior to the date scheduled for the hearing. Where the parties have agreed to a Board of Arbitration, references in this Article to Arbitrator will be read to mean Arbitration Board, where appropriate.
- 6.07 The Arbitrator shall not be authorized to alter, modify or amend any part of the terms of this Agreement, nor to make any decision inconsistent therewith. Any individual who is selected as an Arbitrator cannot at any time have been involved in attempting to solve the grievance or been involved in any way in the negotiation of this collective agreement.
- 6.08 The Employer and the Union shall each pay one-half (1/2) of the remuneration and expenses of the Arbitrator and if a Board of Arbitration is agreed to, each party shall pay the remuneration and expenses of its nominee. Neither party shall be obligated to pay any part of the cost of any stenographic transcript of an arbitration hearing without its expressed consent.
- 6.09 It is agreed that the time limits set out with respect to grievances and arbitrations are mandatory. The time limits imposed upon either party of any step in the Grievance Procedure may be extended by mutual agreement. A request for extension of the time limit made prior to the expiry of such time limit shall not be denied on an arbitrary basis.
- 6.10 Where the Arbitrator determines that a disciplinary penalty or discharge is excessive, he or she may substitute such other penalty for the discipline or discharge as it considers just and reasonable in all the circumstances.
- 6.11 The Employer shall have the right to file a grievance in writing signed by the Director of Human Resources or designate, with the Union within thirty (30) days of when the circumstances giving rise to the grievance were known or should reasonably have been known to the Employer. Failing settlement, a meeting will be held with the Union within seven (7) days of the presentation of the grievance and the Union shall give the Employer its written reply to the grievance in seven (7) days following the meeting. Failing settlement, such grievance may be referred to arbitration under this Article within thirty (30) days of the date the Employer received the Union's reply.
- 6.12 The Union shall have the right to file a grievance in writing with the Editor-in-Chief within thirty (30) days of when the circumstances giving rise to the grievance were known or should reasonably have been known to the Union. Failing settlement, a meeting will be held with the Union within seven (7) days of the presentation of the grievance and the Employer shall give the Union its written reply to the grievance in seven (7) days following the meeting. Failing settlement, such grievance may be referred to arbitration under this Article within thirty (30) days of the date the Union received the Employer's reply.

The Union shall not have the right to initiate an individual grievance and such grievances shall be initiated by the employee concerned. This restriction shall not apply to a grievance involving the discharge of an employee.

For the purpose of this Agreement, 'individual grievance' means a grievance that requests a remedy for an individual employee and does not arise out of the interpretation, application or alleged violation of an Editor-in-Chief department wide policy affecting bargaining unit employees generally.

- 6.13 Policy grievances and grievances involving the discharge or discipline of an employee may be submitted at Step 2 of the Grievance Procedure.
- 6.14 If two (2) or more employees have the same individual grievance arising out of the same circumstances and based on the same incident, such grievances may be combined and treated as a group grievance.
- 6.15 For the purpose of this Agreement, 'day' means a calendar day and 'grievance' means a complaint arising from the interpretation, application, administration or alleged violation of the Agreement.

ARTICLE 7 - SENIORITY

- 7.01 An employee will be considered on probation until he or she has completed three (3) months of continuous employment with the Employer. However, the Employer may, upon notification to the Union, extend the probationary period for up to a maximum of one (1) additional month. In cases where a probationary period is extended, the Employer will notify the Union and the employee in writing. Upon completion of such probationary period, the employee's name shall be placed on the appropriate seniority list and the employee's seniority shall date from the date of last hiring into a bargaining unit position. The Employer may discharge a probationary employee for any reason provided it does not act in bad faith or in conflict with any of the provisions of this Agreement and this shall constitute a lesser standard than the just cause standard for discharging such an employee for the purpose of Section 43.1 of the Labour Relations Act.
- 7.02 Continuous service means the length of continuous service with The London Free Press since the date of last hiring. However, the Employer shall provide employees who transfer from related companies to The London Free Press full credit for past service for the purposes of vacation entitlement and severance calculations.

Current employees will have seniority and continuous service grandfathered.

- 7.03 The Employer shall prepare a seniority list showing the seniority date of each employee in the bargaining unit. An up-to-date copy of the seniority list shall be sent to the Union every six (6) months.
- 7.04 A person shall lose all seniority and shall be deemed to have terminated employment with the Employer if he or she:
- (a) retires or voluntarily quits the employ of the Employer; or
 - (b) is discharged and such discharge is not reversed through the Grievance Procedure; or
 - (c) is absent for three (3) consecutive working days unless a satisfactory reason is given to the Employer; or
 - (d) fails to return to work upon termination of an authorized leave of absence or fails to utilize a leave of absence for the purpose indicated at the time the leave of absence was granted unless a satisfactory reason is given to the Employer; or
 - (e) is absent due to layoff more than eighteen (18) consecutive months; or
 - (f) fails to notify the Employer of his or her intention to report for work within ten (10) days from the date of delivery by courier dispatch of a notice of recall to his or her last place of residence known to the Employer unless a satisfactory reason is given to the Employer; or
 - (g) fails to report to work after being recalled from layoff within fourteen (14) days of notifying the Employer of his or her intention to report for work, unless a satisfactory reason is given to the Employer.
- 7.05 In the event of a layoff, the Employer shall give the employees concerned eight (8) weeks' notice of such layoff and, where possible, will endeavour to give greater notice of layoff. Prior to the notification to employees, the Employer shall meet and have discussions with the Union in connection with the layoff and the number of persons to be laid off in the affected job classifications. Once notices of layoff have been given to affected employees, the Employer shall post bulletin board notices of layoff and receive requests for voluntary resignations. Employees must submit a request for voluntary resignation within two (2) weeks of the posting of the notice. If the Employer agrees to a voluntary resignation(s), such employee(s) will be eligible for severance pay in accordance with Article 21.01 and will forfeit any rights to recall. Should a voluntary resignation be denied, the reasons for such denial will be discussed with the Union. Voluntary resignations from employees in any classification as agreed by the Employer will be used to reduce the number of those to be laid off in such classification.

Following the process of voluntary resignations, notice of layoff to individual employees may proceed. All employee elections regarding each round of bump(s) shall be finalized within two weeks of the notice of layoff to the affected employee(s).

7.06 Before making a layoff, the Employer will, subject to the requirements, efficiency and economy of operations, first consider the use of attrition to reduce the number of employees it requires.

7.07 (a) In the event of a layoff, senior employees shall have the first opportunity for continuing employment and the right to displace junior employees in accordance with the following procedure:

The Employer shall lay off the employees affected within each classification in the inverse order of their seniority ranking with the Employer, provided those remaining are qualified to perform the work required. For the purposes of this article, qualified means able to perform the work required in the classification. For the purpose of layoff and recall, "qualified" means having the demonstrable skill, ability, and qualifications to do the work within a brief period of familiarization (for example, one week).

An employee designated to be laid off may, pursuant to the above, elect, prior to being laid off, to bump the employee with the lowest seniority in the same salary group, provided those remaining are qualified to perform the work required.

For the purposes of layoff, bumping and recall, all positions in Salary Groups 1, 2 and 3 shall be deemed to be the same classification. For additional clarity, an employee who bumps or is recalled to a position within a particular Salary Group shall be placed in the appropriate Salary Group for the purpose of wages and related compensation.

(b) Subject to the Employer determining otherwise on the same basis as set out in paragraph (a) of this section, an employee not able to bump an employee in the same salary group may elect, rather than being laid off, to bump the employee with the lowest seniority in another salary group in the following sequence: (1) in the lower salary groups, in sequence, starting with the next lower salary group, down to and including Salary Group Five; if the employee cannot bump in (1), then (2) in a higher-rated classification up to but not above Salary Group Two ; if the employee cannot bump in (2), then (3) in a classification lower than in Salary Group Five. For the purpose of bumping into a classification lower than in Salary Group Five, the employee may choose the classification he or she will bump into, subject to the Employer determining otherwise on the same basis as set out in paragraph (a) of this section and the employee with the lowest seniority in the classification affected will be bumped. For the purpose of bumping up in (2), only employees who have previously occupied such higher classification for a total of at least one (1) year in the past three (3) years may elect to bump an employee in the higher classification. For the sake of clarity, it is understood that a "classification" means a job listed under a salary group, e.g. multimedia journalist.

- (c) An employee who is otherwise entitled to bump a more junior employee may bump as many part-time positions as is operationally feasible in order to maintain his/her previous number of weekly hours.

If an employee is moved to a lower-ranked classification through the bumping process, he/she will be moved to the appropriate rate in the lower salary group after a period of 6 (six) months.

- (d) For the purposes of a recall, the Employer shall maintain a rehiring list and when hiring for permanent jobs or regular part-time or temporary jobs expected to last longer than one (1) month covered by the Agreement, shall first rehire persons from the list in order of their seniority, provided the employee is qualified to perform the work required. In cases where the recall would be to a classification in another salary group, the Employer shall have the right to determine otherwise on the same basis set out above. Employees on the rehiring list shall have the right to decline a temporary position or a position consisting of a different number of regular shifts per week or a position in a classification in a lower salary group than the classification from which the employee was laid off without jeopardizing his or her position on the rehiring list.

7.08 The Employer shall post a notice for ten (10) calendar days for all job openings in the bargaining unit. Temporary openings of less than three months' duration need not be posted. Employees may submit written applications for such jobs during the period of the posting and applicants shall be granted an interview.

7.09 The dates of posting and its closing shall appear on the information posting along with an outline of the job and a summary of the qualifications required and the initial location. Employees who apply in writing will be granted an interview.

An employee who was not selected may, upon request, and with the assistance of a Union representative if so desired, meet with the Employer for the purpose of discussing why his/her application was not successful.

7.10 Nothing in this Agreement shall preclude the transfer of an individual excluded from the bargaining unit to a position where he or she is included in the bargaining unit, or the transfer or promotion of an employee in the bargaining unit to a position where he or she is excluded from the bargaining unit, if he or she has consented to such transfer or promotion. There shall be deemed to have been no break in the continuous service of such individual by reason of such transfer or promotion. There shall be no layoffs as a direct result of such a transfer into the bargaining unit, except where the transfer is part of a reduction in staff in the editorial department and the individual excluded from the bargaining unit previously held a position now covered by the bargaining unit.

7.11 If an employee is laid off as a direct result of the introduction of major change in equipment or technology used by the Employer in its operations, and such layoff will occur within twelve (12) months of the change, the Employer shall give the Union at least four

(4) months' notice of the layoff. During this period, the parties shall meet to discuss ways and means of reducing the impact of such change.

- 7.12 Except under extraordinary circumstances, the employer shall not publish editorial content submitted by independent contractors or volunteers (excluding students) that constitutes a substitution for full-time or part-time bargaining unit positions and/or bargaining unit work. The nature of extraordinary circumstances shall include considerations of enterprise, exclusive access, first-person voice, frequency of contribution, proximity, timeliness, specialized knowledge and significant competitive advantage for the newspaper.

It is agreed on a without-prejudice and go-forward basis that Article 7.12 shall not restrict the Company's right to assign or accept editorial content contributions from one freelance columnist and the People You Know Column who the employer does not acknowledge as bargaining unit employees. It is understood that the designations shall be for a long and indefinite term.

It is understood that submissions from citizen journalists must satisfy the criteria of infrequent contribution, plus enterprise or first-person voice.

Bargaining unit members will be notified of and considered for any new or renewed freelance assignments.

ARTICLE 8 - LEAVE OF ABSENCE

- 8.01 The Employer will grant leave of absence without pay to a reasonable number of employees selected by the Union for the purpose of attending Union meetings, conventions, education courses not in excess of one (1) week and special meetings and CLC and OFL conventions, provided reasonable notice is given to the Employer.
- 8.02 Employees who wish to run for public office in a municipal, provincial or federal election shall first obtain from the Employer a leave of absence without pay. If elected, the Employer may require the employee to resign. The employee must first obtain permission for the leave of absence.
- 8.03 The Employer will grant an employee a leave of absence without pay or benefits to work in an official capacity for the Union, the CLC or the OFL. During this time period, the employee will continue to accrue bargaining unit seniority and advance on the wage grid. Credited service for pension purposes will not accumulate during such leaves unless the employee makes arrangements to make all pension plan contributions.

All agreements must be in writing with copies to the Union. The employee must give the Employer one (1) month's notice in writing of such a leave of absence, or an election that may lead to the need for such a leave and, if operational concerns require it, up to two (2) weeks more notice after the election. No more than one (1) employee may be absent on this leave at any one time.

- 8.04 The Employer may grant an employee extended leave without pay or benefits of up to one (1) year, for the purpose of education, foreign exchange programs, caring for a family member, charitable work, writing, editing or other publishing projects, none of which may be in competition with the Employer. The first part of such leave will consist of all unused vacation and accumulated overtime and this part of the leave shall be with benefits. Extended leave may be renewed upon agreement between the Employer and the employee for an additional period of up to one (1) year. The Employer will use its best efforts to return the employee to a comparable job on return from such leave. If such a job is not available, the employee will be given a job and be paid the regular salary he or she received at the time the leave commenced plus any applicable general salary increases. The employer will use its best efforts to return the employee to a comparable job on return from such leave if such job exists. In the event no such comparable job exists, Article 7 shall apply.
- 8.05 The following conditions apply to approved leaves of absence in excess of one (1) month's duration granted under this Agreement other than maternity, adoption and paternity leaves of absence:

11.03 The Employer will establish a supplemental unemployment benefit (SUB) plan effective January 1, 1993, or as soon thereafter as all necessary rulings and approvals, including those required to allow the Employer to deduct all SUB payments for income tax purposes, are received. The SUB plan will provide a payment to an employee granted a leave under this article who has applied and qualified for pregnancy or parental benefits under the Employment Insurance Act, equal to the amount of the weekly employment insurance benefit he or she will receive, and paid for each of the two (2) weeks in the waiting period under the Employment Insurance Act. ARTICLE 21 - AUTOMOBILES

21.01 Any employee authorized to use their personal vehicle for Company business will be reimbursed at the Revenue Canada Prescribed Kilometer Rate. This rate will be reviewed and adjusted retroactively to the date Revenue Canada made it effective at least once per year. (language held in abeyance for the term of this contract)

For the life of this contract, any employee authorized to use their personal vehicle for Company business will be reimbursed in each calendar year at the rate of 54 cents for the first 5,000 km driven and 48 cents thereafter.

21.02 Employees must maintain the minimum levels of automobile insurance established by the Employer from time to time.

ARTICLE 22 - WAGES

22.01 The basic salaries set out in the Salary Schedule are minimum salaries and it is agreed that the Employer may grant discretionary merit increases based upon individual merit and performance.

22.02 The Employer will advise the Union of the salaries of new employees upon their hiring and discuss the matter with the Union before placing such new employees on the salary schedule. The Employer will consider, among other things, the nature of the work performed by the employee in prior employment and its comparability to the job duties required by the Employer and the nature, size, circulation and frequency of the publication(s) for which the employee previously worked.

22.03 It is expected that employees will normally progress annually within their groups from the starting basic salary to the job rate basic salary. However, it is understood that the Employer may accelerate or not progress any employee in his or her basic salary progression within the group based upon its assessment of the employee's performance. If an employee's progression is accelerated, such employee shall be considered to have achieved the appropriate experience rating as a result of the acceleration.

22.04 In the case where an employee is not progressed, the employee may appeal to the Editor-in-Chief who shall meet with the employee and a representative from the Union to review and attempt to resolve the appeal.

22.05 In the event the appeal is not resolved, it may, by notice in writing given to the Employer within thirty (30) days of the date of the Editor-in-Chief's decision, be referred to arbitration as provided under Article 6 of this Agreement.

- 22.06 Each employee will receive the general salary increase as applied to his or her basic salary. It also is expected that each employee in receipt of merit pay will normally receive the general salary increase as applied to that merit pay. However, it is understood that the Employer may withhold all or part of the application of the general salary increase to an employee's merit pay based upon its assessment of the employee's performance.
- 22.07 An employee who performs the work and responsibility of a higher salary group, either permanently or temporarily, shall receive an increase of either ten (10) per cent of the employee's basic salary, or the job rate basic salary of the higher group, whichever is less for the full period of the temporary assignment or in the case of a permanent promotion until a wage increase anticipated by this Article is received. In the case where the regular salary of the employee is greater than the increase, the employee shall retain his or her regular salary.
- 22.08 The Employer will notify the Union of any new job classification it establishes in the bargaining unit. If the rate of pay for the new classification is challenged by the Union, the parties shall meet and endeavour to resolve the issue. Any change shall be retroactive to the date the employee began work in the new job classification. If the Union does not agree to the rate of pay for such new classification, the Union shall have the right to file a grievance with the Editor-in-Chief within thirty (30) days of the Employer's response.
- 22.09 'Basic Salary', wherever used in this Agreement shall mean the salary set out in the Salary Schedule and does not contain either merit pay or shift differential.
- 22.10 'Regular Salary', wherever used in this Agreement shall mean basic salary plus merit pay and does not contain shift differential.
- 22.11 'Merit Pay', wherever used in this Agreement shall mean that part of the regular salary paid to an employee which is above the job rate for his or her classification as set out in the Salary Schedule.
- 22.12 Paginators will put stories, pictures, graphics and PDFs on inside pages and assign those stories to the rim for copy editing. They will update pages and print proofs and may publish pages released by a copy editor. A paginator will not be held accountable for copy editing errors on a page, even if they were the ones to publish the page.

Paginators will be paid the Group 3 job rate if they are asked to copy edit stories or write headlines and cutlines, either working in the rim or on the page, or if they are asked to proof pages.

Paginators will be paid the Group 5 job rate if they are asked to design inside open pages, special reports, weekly section centrespreads, maps, graphics, section fronts, or any portion of the front page.

- (1) There shall be no reprisals or action taken by the Employer, the Union or any employee against any employee as a result of his or her participation or lack of participation in the strike.
- (2) There shall be no break in the seniority of any employee as a result of participation in the strike.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 1. RE: PERSONNEL AND PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL FILES

This will confirm our understanding with respect to the personnel and performance appraisal files of employees. Each employee has the right to review his or her files at any time in the presence of a supervisor and respond in writing to any matter in the files with which he or she disagrees.

For this purpose, the employee may receive a copy of the matter disagreed with and any written response will be placed in the files.

Any anonymous phone calls or letters critical of an employee received by the Employer will be discussed at once with the employee and if upon investigation not shown to be true, will be destroyed.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 2 RE: JOB-SHARING

During negotiations, the Company agreed to consider requests from employees who wish to enter into a job-sharing agreement.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 3 RE: PROFESSIONAL MATTERS

This will confirm our understanding that the Editor-in-Chief shall establish a joint committee, in consultation with employee representatives of the Union, consisting of management and employees in the editorial department to discuss from time to time professional matters of concern to the parties.

This committee will establish guidelines for the newsroom with respect to ethical reporting.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 4 RE: TRAINING

This letter will confirm our understanding during negotiations that the Company will meet with the local Union at least twice a year to discuss training and retraining associated with the implementation of new technology.

Training in work-essential software and other technologies will be supplied in a timely and equitable way to all employees in the relevant job classification.

The Employer will supply, in as timely a manner as possible, in-house training in photography for any reporter who wishes it, and copy coaching for any photographer who wishes it.

During the life of this agreement, the Company will offer mandatory training to all newsroom staff for multi-media content. This may include multi-media forms such as blogs, podcasts and videography; and skills such as writing or editing for the Web and posting content to the Web.

New training will be introduced in an equitable way as new technology becomes available.

The Company will meet with the Union semi-annually at the Union's request to review and discuss the training needs of its staff.

The parties to this Collective Agreement recognize the importance of training student journalists and LFP employees to the community, the paper and employees. To that end, the Parties have agreed to the following provisions:

1. Employees seeking training in job skills or jobs up to the classification of Copy Editor will express an interest to the Managing Editor on or before January 15 each calendar year.
2. At least two employees from the list will be trained each summer in house, selected on the basis of seniority.
3. Employees will be selected from the original list on the basis of seniority before employees who join the list in a subsequent January.
4. It is understood that there will be no more than 4 unpaid student interns per calendar year from post-secondary journalism programs. No unpaid internship will last for a period of longer than one month. No more than one such intern will be engaged at any time.
5. The Employer may also utilize single-shift volunteers from the Western program on the understanding that the Employer, the Union and the University agree on a professional development program for LFP employees. Use of single-shift volunteers will cease in the event of a layoff in the reporter or /copy editor classification.
6. In the event of a layoff of a reporter, photographer or copy editor, no new commitments will be made to engage interns.

The Company will notify the Union of any commitments made to interns.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 5 RE: RELIGIOUS HOLIDAY SUBSTITUTION

This letter will confirm our commitment made to you during negotiations that the Employer will not unreasonably deny the request of a bargaining unit employee to substitute a religious holiday for a recognized holiday.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 6 RE: RECOGNIZED HOLIDAY OVERTIME AND CHRISTMAS PAY

This letter is intended to clarify the payment of holiday premium for employees who are scheduled to work on Christmas Day and overtime premium for employees who are scheduled to work on a shift beginning on a recognized holiday.

An employee who is scheduled to work on Christmas Day will be paid regular salary plus applicable shift differential and an additional premium of two (2) times regular salary plus applicable shift differential for the day.

An employee who is required to work in excess of seven and one-half (7 1/2) hours on a shift beginning on any recognized holiday will be paid regular salary plus applicable shift differential and an additional premium of two (2) times regular salary plus applicable shift differential for all hours worked on such shift.

In all other cases of holiday pay, the provisions of Article 16 apply.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 7 RE: DEFERRED COMPENSATION LEAVE

This letter will confirm our commitment made to you during negotiations that the Employer will, upon the written request of a bargaining unit employee, establish an unfunded deferred compensation leave arrangement.

Such arrangement shall be within the confines of the law and it is understood that no more than two employees in any classification, or a total of four employees in the bargaining unit, may be off on such leave at any one time.

There will be no loss of seniority as accrued to the beginning of such leaves.

Employer and employee benefit contributions will continue throughout the period of the arrangement as if the employee was working for the whole period and will be based on the salary paid to the employee throughout the period of the arrangement.

Exceptions to the benefits arrangement will be pension and LTD, in which case the employee and Employer contributions and benefit will be based on such employee's unadjusted regular salary.

Time off for such leaves will not be counted as time worked for the purposes of vacation pay and it will be prorated accordingly.

The Employer will pay any administrative costs associated with the arrangement.

Part-time employees who work on average three shifts a week or more during the six - month period prior to the written request are eligible for deferred compensation leave. Temporary employees are not eligible for deferred compensation leave.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 8 RE: VISION CARE

The Employer agrees to supplement the current vision care benefit of $100 by up to $150 for bargaining unit employees and up to $50 for eligible family members.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 9 RE: BARGAINING COMMITTEE WAGES

Notwithstanding Article 3.04, the Employer agrees that in order to expedite the renewal of a new Collective Agreement, when up to four (3) bargaining unit employees, plus the unit chair are granted time off from their regularly scheduled shifts to attend meetings with the Employer for the purpose of the aforementioned negotiations, the Employer will pay such bargaining unit employees for such time off at their regular salary rate plus applicable shift differentials and the Employer will not ask the Union to reimburse the Employer for this expense.

Such payment by the Employer as noted above shall not include overtime or non-scheduled hours.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 10 RE: MEETINGS WITH SENIOR EDITORIAL MANAGEMENT

During negotiations, the parties discussed the importance of an ongoing dialogue between the senior editorial management and the Union's unit executive to discuss matters of mutual interest.

It is agreed between the parties that quarterly meetings between the two groups will be held during the life of this Collective Agreement. Meetings will be held more frequently when requested.

It is understood that the intent of such meetings is to foster open communication between management and the Bargaining Unit in the editorial department and ultimately to encourage the continuation of positive employee-employer relations.

It is noted that such meetings are not intended to take the place of or be a substitute for collective agreement negotiations, the grievance procedure or ongoing discussions between management and staff.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 11 RE: TIME SHEETS

Time sheets will not be changed without a discussion first with the employee.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 12 RE: REPORTERS WORKING AS COPY EDITORS

The Parties to this Collective Agreement agree that reporters will not be assigned to work as copy editors while employees in the copy editor/reporter classification are available, except in extraordinary circumstances.

Assignments to work as a reporter or a copy editor will not be for less than a full shift.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 13 RE: ACTING AS MANAGEMENT

The current practice of paying employees who act as managers ($10.00 per shift) will continue for the life of this agreement.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 14 RE: HARASSMENT POLICY

Both parties agree:

- To maintain the process of reporting back to the complainant that appropriate remedial action has been taken.
- Investigations may be conducted by a third party jointly appointed by the Union and the Company.
- To renew education on harassment and reporting procedures as needed.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 15 RE: Workflow Guidelines

The Parties agree to replace the reporter and photographer classification with the multi-media journalist job classification. Layoffs in the job classification will be handled on seniority basis only, according to the terms of the collective agreement.

The following principles will help guide any evolution in the workplace as a result of multi-media work. It is the Union's hope that this change in job classification, and the following guidelines, will allow the Company more flexibility in assigning work, and allow more involvement in content management from copy editors to editorial assistants, and therefore will contribute to more reasonable expectations of what any individual multi-media journalist is asked to do at one time.

- 1) Raw copy will be copy edited before being published, either online or in print. (Reporters may be asked to post their own material when immediacy of posting is a competitive advantage for the company, but those postings would be replaced by copy edited material in a timely way.)
- 2) Cutlines are part of the copy editing workflow.
- 3) Copy editing is bargaining unit work.
- 4) Posting is a job-essential skill for all employees in Groups 1-6.
- 5) Posting of copy edited material or photos may be done by any bargaining unit member in Group 1-6.
- 6) Paginators need a clear line of command.
- 7) Editorial work is the sole jurisdiction of employees in the editorial department. Only employees in the editorial department can be assigned editorial work. This does not negate the rights the Company has in Article 7.12.
- 8 Multi-media journalists can produce photo, audio, video or text content for print and online.
- 9 The assignment desk is responsible for giving direction about primary areas of responsibility when more than one multi-media journalist is sent to cover a single assignment.
- 10 Parties involved in production of video, including the narrator, whether on or off camera, story writer, and videographer are entitled to input into the final product prior to posting, where operationally possible.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 16 RE: STD Plan / Casual Absenteeism

If an Employee is absent for more than four consecutive days and has not completed a Short Term Disability form in anticipation of an absence longer than ten (10) working days, he or she will be required to provide a doctor's note for those days. For purposes of clarity, legitimate (see below) casual illness or absenteeism prior to eligibility for Short Term Disability under the Flex plan will be paid at regular straight time pay for the time absent from work.

Those employees who are compensated by a variable compensation plan will have any STD payment based on the Benefit Base which is the prior calendar year's total earnings.

For absences that fall outside the Short Term Disability Plan under Flex Media, employees may be required to provide a doctor's note to the employer to authorize their absence from work, as well as to qualify for payment of wages.

The request for the doctor's note will be based on reasonable criteria which are as follows:

- 1) The employee has an excessive record of absenteeism; or
- 2) The employee exhibits a pattern of absences; or
- 3) The employer has reasonable grounds to suspect that the illness was not legitimate.

LETTER OF UNDERSTANDING 17 RE: ON-SITE BALLOTING

The Employer agrees that the Union may hold annual balloting for elected positions in the workplace, provided there is no disruption to the operation. For clarity, the meeting may be held only after regular business hours and requests must be made two weeks in advance and approved subject to operational requirements.
