Local 87-M History

Pay of $30 a week for six days of work, arbitrary firings, salary cuts, and ridiculous schedules. That's what brought the Guild to the newsrooms of Toronto in the Dirty Thirties. And since then, SONG has been working hard to get a better deal first for newspaper and now for all media employees.

It seems odd now, but in the 1930's, working Canadians looked south of the border when they wanted strong, dynamic and progressive union representation. For news industry employees, the obvious choice was the American Newspaper Guild, founded in 1933 by a man who was then one of the most well-known columnists in North America, Heywood Broun.

While skilled craft workers such as printers and press operators had long been organized at most major papers, the union idea was new to reporters, editors, advertising sales staff, and circulation and clerical workers.

But a small group of Toronto newsroom workers -- many of them women, who were only a small minority of editorial staffers in those days -- brought the American Newspaper Guild to Canada in September 1936 with the daunting task of organizing the newsrooms of the four Toronto dailies then publishing.

The new local was called the Toronto Newspaper Guild, Local 87 of the ANG, and its first decade was largely a story of failure. With legal protections weak, publishers were able to get away with subtle and not-so-subtle pressure tactics in order to prevent unions from taking root. Even at the Toronto Daily Star, known as a friend of labour (and founded by striking printers in the 1890s) an attempt in the early 40s to negotiate a contract collapsed after the company demoted known union supporters and engaged in the kind of blatant intimidation that is outlawed today. The ANG revoked the charter of the Toronto local in 1943.

But the need and desire for a union didn't die. In 1948, the Toronto Newspaper Guild was resurrected and was able to demonstrate majority support in the Star newsroom. That meant it could be certified by the Ontario Labour Relations Board under newly enacted labour laws, with the result that the company was obliged to bargain with the union. The new union's first president was Beland Honderich, later to become publisher and part-owner of the Star. Honderich set the tone for this new union when he wrote in the first issue of the local union's newsletter "We are now trade unionists...members of that great body of men and women who have been striving for years to improve the living standards of Canadian workers...A union, if it is to be successful, must be representative...it must be democratic..." Those goals continue to motivate this union.

After several months of bargaining, the Guild's first contract in Toronto and indeed the first ANG contract in Canada was signed in April, 1949, containing the milestone pay rate of $80 a week for reporters/photographers with five years of experience. The Star proclaimed itself on its news pages as the "first newspaper in Canada to establish the five-day, 40-hour week for editorial employees...it now becomes the first and only Toronto daily newspaper to pay its editorial workers time-and-a-half in cash for overtime."

The Guild was on its way. By 1953, the newsroom of the Toronto Telegram (a paper which eventually folded in 1971) was under Guild contract, and the Globe and Mail followed two years later. At the same time, other departments at the Star followed the newsroom into the union, so that the Guild soon represented advertising sales staff, circulation employees, delivery drivers and accounting clerks totaling almost 1300 members.

Other early Guild papers in Ontario were the Toronto edition of the Daily Racing Form, and the Brantford Expositor, whose mid-1950s unionization marked the local's first foray outside Toronto.

Employees made major gains in wages, benefits and working conditions in those early years, and were generally able to do it without having to resort to strike action. The very first strike in the young local's history took place at the Racing Form in July of 1951. It lasted all of 30 minutes. All 13 members went on strike when the employer refused to implement wage increases that had need negotiated. They returned to work with guarantees that all members would get their increases and they did. When the Guild's first major strike came, it was at a small paper, and it was a messy one.

Employees at the Thomson-owned Oshawa Times walked out in 1966 in a two-week strike that became one of the biggest Canadian labour battles of the era. While the strike involved only 35 employees, the courts granted a controversial injunction limiting picketing. That prompted a rebellion in the strong union town, and picket lines swelled to more than 1,000 with the support of other unions. When the local sheriff showed up to try to enforce the injunction, he was pelted with snowballs and beat a hasty retreat. Newspaper publishers were outraged, but the strike was settled very soon after. A second strike in Oshawa was also long and difficult in 1995 and created the local union's first strike paper operating in competition with the Times. At the end of the strike neither paper survived.

In 1955 the young local union had to confront the loss of one of its early activists and a former president A.O. (Alf) Tate, a Star photographer who was killed in a work accident. Tate and reporter Doug Cronk were assigned to report on a hurricane off the coast of Florida when their plane went missing. Their bodies were never found. The union honoured Tate by creating a journalism scholarship in his name. Originally, the scholarship was awarded to a needy grade 11 student who demonstrated ability and was selected by the Toronto School Board. Today the local maintains the A.O. Tate scholarship for a journalism student at Ryerson University in Toronto.

Fred Jones followed Tate as local union president. Jones left the local to work for the international union as a Canadian representative where he continued to work with local 87. He later returned to the local as Executive Secretary. His contribution to the union has also been recognized with an internal award. Every year a local activist is granted an educational subsidy in Jones' honour.

Co-operation between the Guild and other newspaper unions was one of the keys to the gains at the Toronto dailies in the 1950s, but the solidarity was strained in the wake of a disastrous strike by the printers (members of the International Typographical Union) in 1964. The printers at all three dailies took a stand against technological change, but Guild members continued working, and the papers continued publishing with the help of strikebreakers. The unionized printers never went back to work.

The late '60s and the 1970s were a more stable period for the union, as the Guild settled into perhaps a too-cozy relationship with the newspaper companies. Organizing of new groups was given little priority. The union, recognizing it was more than just a Toronto organization, changed its name in the late 70s to Southern Ontario Newspaper Guild, but made no serious effort to expand. The parent union, recognizing it had members outside the United States, changed its name from American Newspaper Guild to The Newspaper Guild. The early 1970s also saw the first major stirrings of Canadian nationalism within the union, as the Toronto Guild pressed with only minimal success for more Canadian autonomy within the international structure.

The local also had stable leadership through these years. Jack Dobson of the Globe and Mail served 8 terms as local president from 1959 through 1966 when he resigned to become a local union staff representative. Later, John Lowe of the Star led the union for 9 terms from 1976 through 1984. While a woman was not president until 1989 when Gail Lem was first elected, women played a key role in the union and its executive from the earliest days. Star reporter Judith Robinson was part of the 1939 organizing committee and women like Lillian Thain and Nadia Bozinoff also of the Star, Isabel Greenwood and Jean Pakenham of the Telegram and Margaret Daly of the Star all made fundamental contributions to the union's successes.

The 1980s saw a shakeup at SONG, as new officers were elected with a mandate to organize more workplaces and take a more aggressive approach to negotiations.

At the bargaining table this new approach saw the Guild's first strike ever at the Toronto Star, in 1983. The 1,500 SONG members were off the job for only four days, including a weekend, but the strike marked a turning point, and companies got the message that they couldn't take the union for granted. Meanwhile at the Globe and Mail, Guild employees took their first ever strike vote in 1982, also marking a new era in relations with the company. Those negotiations ended without a strike, and the Globe unit of SONG still has a strike-free record.

Organizing took off in the early '80s, with the Hamilton Spectator newsroom joining SONG and with the landmark organizing drive at Maclean's magazine, where editorial staff went on strike for two weeks in 1983 and gained their first contract. Maclean's part-time employees joined the union in 2005 and these two groups represent the only unionized operations in the Rogers Publishing empire. The Globe and Mail's outside circulation department and advertising staff also went union.

With those successes, news industry workers saw the benefits of unionization. By the mid-80s, editorial employees at the Metroland chain of non-daily papers joined SONG and bargained a contract that is seen as the pace-setter in the community newspaper sector. Soon employees of other non-dailies sought out SONG, and the union was expanding rapidly.

In the late 1980's, two of the largest non-union newsrooms in the province -- the London Free Press and Kitchener-Waterloo Record --joined SONG. This was followed by organizing at a number of small Thomson-owned papers. Following long and bitter -- but successful -- first-contract strikes at Thomson papers in Guelph and Cambridge, SONG was able to organize employees at Thomson outlets in Belleville, Chatham, Niagara Falls and Midland. Contracts at all these papers made major improvements in wages.

The 1980's also saw a move for the Guild offices to its current home at 1253 Queen St. E., just east of Leslie St. In 1984, SONG purchased the two-storey former Target air conditioning and heating contractor building for $170,000. With the rapid expansion of membership and units, the former quarters on the ground floor and basement of a townhouse at 219 Jarvis St. had become cramped.

Despite layoffs and hiring freezes at many papers during the 1990s, SONG's membership continued to grow through organizing.

But throughout the period of expansion in the 1990's, the leadership of SONG became increasingly frustrated with the lack of attention and service that the Newspaper Guild's Washington head office was providing to Canadians. After a long and unsuccessful campaign for more Canadian autonomy within the Guild international, SONG members voted in 1994 to sever ties with The Newspaper Guild. Shortly afterwards, SONG affiliated with the Communications, Energy and Paperworkers Union of Canada (CEP), and is now Local 87-M of the CEP. The CEP is an all-Canadian union with more than 150,000 members and Canada's largest media union.

The Guild and the Star again did battle in 1992 during a one-month strike over the company's plans to contract-out its delivery department. The strike failed to stop the company's plans, but got a better deal for the laid-off employees.

In 1996, SONG's long-time president, Gail Lem of the Globe and Mail unit, was elected as the CEP's national vice-president of media, the top officer for the CEP's 15,000-strong media section, representing employees in print and broadcast across Canada. She was followed in that post by Peter Murdoch who is a former Hamilton Spectator reporter and SONG representative.

Despite restrictive labour laws passed by the Conservative government elected in Ontario in 1995, SONG has continued to organize, bringing in employees of ethnic community newspapers at Sing Tao Daily, Share, the Korea Times and the World Journal. In early 2002 a further 350 employees of the London Free Press chose union representation with SONG. Their Quebecor cousins in the Toronto Sun newsroom joined up in early 2003, followed closely by the Local's first broadcasting bargaining units at CHUM's New PL/WI/NX now known as the A Channel and Corus. Soon after pre-press employees at the Toronto Sun and editorial employees at the Ottawa Sun chose SONG. In addition, employees at the Stratford Beacon Herald advertising department and the Simcoe Reformer and the free daily Metro have joined SONG. By 2004, the Local represented media workers in newspapers, magazines, book publishing, television and specialty broadcasting, radio and internet: in recognition of this diversity, we changed the name of our Local to the Southern Ontario Newsmedia Guild.

In 2008, SONG expanded in a big way to the Ottawa area where we'd already organized the Ottawa Sun. Beginning in January, we added seven media units from the former Local 102-O, including the House of Commons broadcast/technical group, the Ottawa Citizen mailroom, the Winchester Press, the Glengarry News, the Pembroke Observer, TelAv and ELC. We now represent about 4,000 workers in all aspects of the media in Ontario and 35 different workplaces. The local and its members confront daily issues of media concentration, editorial integrity, contracting out, job security, pensions and the declining circulation of paid daily newspapers.

The local has had, and continues to have, success in supporting its members on these issues because of the willingness of members to volunteer their time and use their energy and creativity. Some take time from their careers to work full-time as local president or on local staff. In addition, the local has been well served by the dedication of its staff hired from outside the membership. Men and women who have spent countless hours in the negotiation and administration of collective agreements and ensuring the infrastructure of the local functioned on a day-to-day basis.

Look elsewhere on our website, www.song.on.ca, for examples of SONG contracts which set out wages, vacations, hours of work, overtime and many other workplace issues. The site also provides the names of the dedicated local officers and staff who have served this union since its formation.

Such schedule may be amended by the union. However, thirty (30) days' notice must be provided to Human Resources to enable any change to be implemented.

ARTICLE 5 - HOURS AND OVERTIME FOR REGULAR FULL TIME AND TEMPORARY EMPLOYEES

1. The standard work week for days, afternoons, or nights shall be thirty-seven and one-half (37 1/2) hours in seven (7) calendar days.

2. The hours comprising a week's work may be made up of a combination of five (5) days, afternoons or nights. The employer shall make every reasonable effort to schedule consecutive days off as necessary to meet Company needs. Every reasonable effort shall be made to keep combination shifts to a minimum.

3. In the event of a shift change (other than a temporary change which shall not be for longer than one month), the employer will discuss and consider career aspirations and personal preference of the employee involved and in the event of a disagreement over a shift change, may consider possible alternatives. Ten days notice shall be given to the affected employee of shift changes involving a difference in shift start time of five (5) hours or more. The notice period may be reduced with the agreement of the employee. The final decision to change shifts rests with the employer. Shift changes shall first be offered on a voluntary basis and then assigned on the basis of seniority, starting with least senior employee in the classification.

4. An employee whose regularly scheduled shift has been changed shall not be compelled to start the new shift without a twenty-four (24) hour break.
5. Notice of Sunday publication shall be provided in accordance with the provisions of Article 25. Shift schedules will be arranged in accordance with the provisions of Article 5.
6. It may be necessary from time to time to assign employees to split shifts, however, every reasonable effort shall be made through scheduling to avoid such shifts. In keeping with this commitment where practical, employees shall be permitted to opt for late starts where such late starts provide a viable alternative to split shifts. Notice of a requirement to work a split shift shall be given to the employee no later than 2:00 p.m. of the preceding day the shift is to be worked, except where the need for a split shift could not be foreseen by the Company. An employee shall not be precluded from choosing to work split shifts, if the Company agrees.
7. No advance notice need be given of a change in starting time if the change is no more than one hour earlier or later than the scheduled starting time.
8. The standard unit of hours which shall constitute a day's, afternoon's or night's work, shall not be more than seven and one half (7 1/2) hours exclusive of a lunch time without pay of not less than thirty (30) minutes nor more than one (1) hour.
9. Overtime shall be defined as work beyond the unit of hours in a shift and the unit of hours in a work week and shall be paid for at the overtime rate. For the purpose of calculating work beyond the unit of hours in the work week, hours worked will include hours of paid leave during the week in question. An employee assigned to work their day off will be paid a minimum of three (3) hours pay at the overtime rate.
10. All overtime must be approved in advance by an employee's supervisor or their designate.
11. It is understood that the overtime provisions do not apply to outside sales representatives. Additionally, for the classifications of advertorial editor, the provisions for daily overtime do not apply resulting in overtime being defined as work beyond the unit of hours in a work week for those two classifications.
12. The overtime rate shall be defined as time and one half the regular straight-time hourly rate. Overtime which exceeds three (3) hours before or after a regular shift will be compensated at double the regular straight time hourly rate. Overtime following or prior to working a sixth, seventh, or statutory holiday shift will be compensated at double the regular straight time hourly rate.

13. An employee called back to work after having left the property shall be guaranteed at least three hours' pay at the overtime rate, plus $7.00 for the call. An employee shall be considered called back to work when they are required to report to the office or other locale, but shall not be considered called back to work in response to a telephone call to impart information to the employer. However, should the employee be required to make further immediate business phone calls as a result of the call from the employer or its representative, the employee shall be entitled to overtime at the overtime rate for time spent on these calls.
14. If during the term of this agreement day off schedules covering employees encompassed by this agreement must be altered, two week's notice will be given, except where the need could not reasonably have been foreseen by the employer.
15. An employee shall not be required to begin one scheduled working day sooner than eleven (11) hours following the end of another scheduled working day unless the employee agrees.
16. Overtime in excess of two (2) hours following (or prior to) a regular shift, shall entitle the employee to one meal allowance of thirteen ($13.00) or at the option of the company, providing a supplied meal.
17. Employees required to work overtime may elect time off in lieu of pay. Such time may be banked to a maximum of thirty-seven and one half (37.5) hours. While thirty-seven and one half (37.5) hours remain in the bank, any additional banked time will be at the employer's discretion.
Banked time off will be scheduled to avoid interference with the operation of the department and must be approved by the Department Head. Regularly scheduled vacation shall have precedence over requests for banked time off. In the event of recurring problems in scheduling time away, the employee may request a meeting between her/himself, the Union representative, Human Resources and the Department Head.
18. No employee shall be required to work more than four (4) consecutive hours without at least a thirty (30) minute unpaid lunch break.
19. All employees including outside sales representatives shall be entitled to two (2) twenty (20) minute paid breaks per 7 1/2 hour shift.
20. The company policy regarding flex time shall remain in effect for the duration of this agreement. It is understood that flex time refers to the movement of hours within the regular work week and is not meant to be imposed on an employee to replace overtime, unless agreed to by the employee.
21. Regularly scheduled overtime shifts for an employee shall become voluntary after four (4) consecutive weeks of such scheduling. This overtime will then be assigned on a voluntary basis and then assigned on the basis of seniority starting with the least senior employees in the classification.

ARTICLE 6 - GENERAL WAGE PROVISIONS

1. In the application of the following schedules of minimums, experience shall include all employment in comparable work. Employees shall be classified as to job title and experience rating at the time of employment, transfer or promotion. An employee paid the salary for an experience classification higher than their actual experience requires shall receive such higher experience rating and thereafter advancement to succeeding salary minimums shall occur on the anniversaries of such upgraded rating. An employee paid a salary between that for their experience rating and the succeeding one shall be advanced to not less than the succeeding minimum on the next anniversary of their experience rating. Any disagreement with the experience rating must be made to the Employer within 100 days of the date of hiring.
2. The minimum wages established herein are minimums only. Salaries above those may be paid to an individual employee as recognition of individual merit and performance.
3. The employer may call employees to work at any time and for the purpose of determining the rate of pay which applies to it shall be understood that the day shift rates shall apply to all starting times which commence between 6:00 a.m. and 10:59 a.m., afternoon shift rates shall apply to all shifts which commence between 11:00 a.m. and 6:59 p.m., and night shift rates shall apply to all shifts which commence between 7:00 p.m. and 5:59 a.m. In no case, however, shall overtime on a daily shift be construed as making night rates applicable to work which in the absence of overtime would be at day rates, and overtime worked at the end of a day shift shall not change such shift to a split shift.
4. When an employee is assigned temporarily, at the request of the supervisor, to a higher classification for one shift or more, the employee shall receive the salary scale in the temporary classification which is next highest to the scale received by the employee in their classification. Notwithstanding the foregoing, when a sales assistant is assigned temporarily by the supervisor to replace the account executive, for one shift or more, he/she shall receive 10% above the employee's current regular salary.
5. In the case of temporary transfers, merit money shall follow the employee to the new classification but in no case shall payment of merit money result in an employee being paid in excess of 10% of the new minimum scale salary to which they are entitled.
6. When an employee is promoted to a higher classification, the employee shall receive the salary scale in the classification to which he or she is promoted which is next highest to the scale to which the employee received in their former classification.

7. Where there is the creation of a new bargaining unit position which involves a new title or a change in title, the Employer will notify the Union and will discuss any disagreements with the Union. Notification to the Union will be prior to announcing the new position.
8. It is understood that new Account Executives may require a period of time in order to develop and achieve sales targets. New Account Executives will be provided with a guarantee for a three (3) month period. Such guarantee will be established depending on account list, but shall not be less than $500.00 (five-hundred dollars) per week for 100% commissioned account executives. Small Business Account Executives shall receive a weekly salary guarantee of $575.00 (five hundred and seventy-five dollars) for the first three month period.
9. Any employee assigned to the Customer & Production Assistant team leader role will be paid a premium of an additional 10% of their base salary. For clarification, it is agreed that this team lead premium will apply to all paid hours.
10. To ensure current ESA minimum wage requirements are met for Account Executives, a weekly draw will be provided if required. This draw will be reconciled on a monthly basis.
11. Account representatives may be assigned National and Multi-Market service accounts and the service commission paid will be 1%.

8. In cases of conflict over vacation dates, seniority shall prevail within vacation groupings. In approving the vacation schedule, the employer shall determine the

Such salary and commission will be designated as vacation pay.

This premium rate shall also apply to shifts starting on or before midnight on a statutory holiday. In addition, the employee shall be granted a day off with pay at a time mutually agreed upon between the employer and the employee. Where such alternate day off cannot be arranged within sixty (60) days, the employee has the option of receiving a day's straight time pay in lieu of the holiday or, if their time bank does not exceed thirty-seven and one half (37.5) hours, banking the straight time. Where such election would see the time bank exceed thirty-seven and one half (37.5) hours, the employee shall receive payment in lieu of the holiday.
3. If a statutory holiday falls on an employee's scheduled day off or during an employee's vacation period, the employee shall be entitled to an alternate day off at a time mutually agreed upon between the employer and employee. Where such alternate day off cannot be arranged within sixty (60) days, the employee may, if their time bank does not exceed thirty seven and one half (37.5) hours, bank the straight time. Where such election would see the time bank exceed thirty-seven and one half (37.5) hours, the employee shall receive payment in lieu of the holiday.
4. Employees may request to change any of the holidays listed above for another religious holiday. Outside sales representatives will be given reasonable sales support to assist them in achieving their quotas.

Failure to give such notice shall be taken as voluntary resignation.
7. Seniority shall continue to accrue for all other leaves under Article 14 of this collective agreement.
8. It is recognized that an employee on leave of absence may be replaced and that such replacement may be terminated on the return of the absent employee without recourse to the grievance procedure. Such termination of a replacement employee shall apply only to temporary employees hired as a result of the leave of absence. Where such change takes place due to new technology or work reorganization as a result of new technology, the employer shall, if so requested by the union, sit down and discuss the changes and the appropriate new classifications which may be created as a result of the changes.

3. Where new technology requires training, current employees shall be trained first and in the order of seniority within the working area affected by the technology. Any retraining of employees required by the introduction of new technology shall be done at the expense and on the time of the employer without reduction in salary or impairment of benefits.
4. In the event of a reduction in the number of employees resulting from such introduction, the provisions of bumping of Article 22 apply.
5. No employee at the time of introduction of new or modified equipment, machines, apparatus or related software which results in the transfer of new employees into the bargaining unit shall suffer loss of employment or reduction in salary because of this transfer assuming current employees were provided training in this new technology or equipment and chose not to or are unable to learn and competently apply the new technology.

If during the term of this agreement such transfers are effected, the Union and the Company shall meet to resolve any issues created by the transfer.

ARTICLE 22 - LAYOFFS

1. Layoffs to reduce staff for economy reasons, as distinct from discharge for just and sufficient cause, may be made. However, the employer agrees that every reasonable effort will be made through attrition to avoid such layoffs.
2. When it is determined by the Employer that a reduction in the work force is necessary, not less than six (6) calendar weeks notice shall be given to the Union and the employees affected. At the request of either party, the Employer and the Union shall meet during the notice period to discuss possible alternatives to the layoff. Employees shall be laid off in reverse order of seniority in each classification provided those remaining are qualified to perform the work required. During the notice period, the Employer will request voluntary resignations from employees in the classifications involved, and shall pay severance pay to volunteers in accordance with this agreement. Each request for voluntary termination and severance will be subject to the Employer's approval. The number of employees to be laid off shall be reduced accordingly. It is understood that employees voluntarily resigning will thereby waive their rights to recall.
3. Layoffs to reduce staff shall be made within the classification involved in the inverse order of Company seniority.
4. An employee in a classification so affected may elect to enter another classification in which they have proven competence, provided their total Company seniority is greater than that of the employee whom they are bumping. Bumping into a higher classification may occur up to, and including, classifications in Group 2.
5. In the event of layoffs to reduce the force and while the recall list remains in force, the use of temporary employees shall not be increased unless all laid off employees with proven competency in the classification have been offered the additional work and have refused such work. Additionally, after a layoff occurs, the employer will immediately review its temporary requirements with a view to provide, where practical, work for employees on the recall list recognizing the work is of a temporary nature.
6. An employee who bumps into a classification in a lower group shall be paid not less than the top minimum for that group but not greater than the employees previous rate.
7. A full time employee affected by layoff may elect to bump into a part time position in the same classification providing his/her company seniority is greater than that of the part time employee being bumped. Such bumping will only be permitted to the extent that the ratio of displaced part timers to the original part time complement immediately before bumping is no greater than the ratio of displaced full timers to the original full time complement before the layoffs.

A part time employee displaced as a result of this section may elect to bump into another part time position in the same classification providing his/her company seniority is greater than that of the part time employee being bumped.

For the purposes of this section, company seniority for full timers shall be based on calendar years of uninterrupted service. Calculation for part time employees will be based on the number of shifts worked. For the purpose of calculating shifts worked, the total number of hours, excluding overtime, will be added and divided by 7.5.

ARTICLE 23 - RECALL

1. Any employee laid off shall be placed on a recall list for a period of twenty-four (24) months. Prior to posting, any job opening that occurs in the bargaining unit during that period shall first be offered to any employee on that list in order of Company seniority, provided they are available and have proven competency in the classification in which the vacancy occurs.
2. Refusal to accept a regular full time job in the classification from which the employee was laid off shall result in the employee being dropped from the list. An employee will not be dropped from the list for refusal to accept or for accepting a temporary or part time position.

If an employee is rehired after the payment of severance pay and before the expiry of the number of weeks so paid for, the unearned severance shall be refundable to the employer.

3. The Union and unit chair or their designate shall be notified of any intended recall.
4. An employee who is recalled shall be paid the prevailing rate for the classification.
5. Subject to Article 15 (2) and Article 26(3), seniority shall mean the length of continuous full time employment with the Employer. Employment shall be deemed continuous unless interrupted by (a) layoff; (b) dismissal for just and sufficient cause, or (c) resignation.

However, in the case of a layoff, service time and seniority will be frozen at the level established at the time of the layoff. If the employee is recalled from the recall list to regular full time employment, such service time and seniority will be restored at the frozen level and an adjusted service date will be established.

6. An employee recalled shall be notified by registered mail, courier service or via email sent to their last known address, with confirmation required that the email has been received.
7. The employee shall notify the Employer in writing or via email, within seven days of receiving such recall notice, of their intention to return and shall be given an additional seven days to report for work, failing which their name shall be removed from the recall list.

8. A laid off employee on the recall list that is currently enrolled in the company benefits plan shall continue to be covered under extended health care and dental for the duration of the severance pay period.

ARTICLE 24 - DURATION AND RENEWAL

This Agreement shall become effective on the date of ratification and shall expire on December 31, 2011.

Within ninety (90) days prior to the termination of this Agreement, the Employer or the Union may open negotiations for a new Agreement to take effect upon the expiry of this present Agreement. During negotiations, all terms and conditions of the Agreement shall remain in effect until the conciliation procedures required by law have been completed.

ARTICLE 25 - NEW OR CHANGED PUBLICATIONS

1. The Employer will give the union at least eight (8) weeks' notice prior to publishing a Sunday paper except in the case of a competitive event in which case the notice period may be reduced to four (4) weeks. A competitive event shall mean the intrusion by a daily newspaper into Burlington or Hamilton/Wentworth through a major increase in news coverage or the specific selling of local advertising. In such cases the notice period may be less than four (4) weeks with the agreement of the union. During the notice period, the Employer will discuss implementation with the union. The Employer is not obligated to delay implementation as a result of such discussion.

ARTICLE 26 - PART TIME EMPLOYEES

1. Part time employees shall be defined as an employee who is scheduled to work 80% or less of the normal work week or a student employed during the school vacation period.
2. Part time employees shall be covered by all provisions of this Agreement, except where specifically provided otherwise in the Agreement or in this Article.
3. The following sections of the Agreement are excluded for part timers: Articles 8, 9, 10, 12, 22, 23.
Bereavement leave under Article 14 (9) as applicable to part time employees will be limited to regularly scheduled work days within the three (3) day bereavement period.

The provisions of Article 12 concerning severance pay will apply to part time employees, except that the calculation of "years' service" will be pro-rated on the basis of shifts worked. Additionally, the provisions of Article 22 relating to part time bumping including seniority calculation will apply to part time employees.

Seniority for part time employees for the purpose of layoff, step up wage increases and severance will be calculated on the basis of shifts worked excluding overtime. For the purpose of calculating the number of shifts worked, the total number of hours worked will be added and divided by 7.5. Absences from work will not be included unless it is a leave recognized under the Employment Standards Act in excess of 8 weeks in duration. If the leave extends past 8 weeks the entire leave will be included. For the purpose of determining the equivalent "shifts worked" for these leaves, the average hours worked over the preceding 12 months will be used.

4. Part time employees' hours will be set on a regular basis as required. A notice of one week will be given to change regularly scheduled shifts.
5. A part time employee may work as a full time employee temporarily to cover a vacation or absence under this Agreement without affecting his or her part time status.
6. Part time employees, excluding summer students, shall be paid 6% of their regular wages on each pay in lieu of annual vacation each year. Part time employees with seven (7) years of continuous service shall be paid eight (8%) of their regular wages on each pay in lieu of annual vacation each year. Such payments will not apply where a part time employee is transferred with uninterrupted service to regular employment at which time the employee shall be covered by the paid vacation provisions in Article 8. Summer students shall be paid 4% of their regular wages as vacation pay at the end of their work term.
7. A part time employee or a student shall not be covered by the provisions of the welfare benefit plans, except as provided by law and except as provided in Article 26, paragraph 8.
8. Part time employees who have worked an average of twenty (20) hours per week over the previous twelve (12) month period are entitled to participate in the Company's Supplementary Medical Plan and Dental Plan. The monthly premium shall be shared 50% employer and 50% employee with the employee share paid through payroll deductions.
9. A part time employee shall be paid on an hourly basis not less than an equivalent to the weekly minimum starting salary in their classification. Students employed during the school vacation period shall be paid not less than 75% of the starting rate in their classification.
10. Part timers may be laid off to reduce staff, as distinct from discharge for just and sufficient cause. Layoffs to reduce staff shall be made in the inverse order of Company seniority by classification.
11. Part timers who have been laid off shall be placed on a part time rehiring list for a period of twenty-four (24) months. They shall be given the opportunity of re-employment to fill any future part time opening in their classification during that period. Re-employment shall be in the inverse order of layoff from the classification. Refusal to accept a job offer in the classification from which the employee was laid off shall result in the employee being dropped from the part time rehiring list, however an employee will not be dropped from the list for refusal to accept a temporary position.

12. Part time employees shall not be hired to eliminate or prevent the hiring of full time employees.
13. All part time employees who qualify under the Ontario Employment Standards Act shall be paid for ten (10) statutory holidays as per current Employment Standards statutory pay calculations.

"SCHEDULE A"

The following protocol regarding commission sales will remain in effect for the life of this agreement with the following principles applied:

1. The Union and the Employer shall establish a dispute resolution committee with two members from the Union and two members from the Employer represented. The purpose of the committee is to resolve disputes over sales targets. An account executive or outbound telesales representative will be able to access the DRC when his/her accounts list has been affected, by ten (10) per cent or more, or when one of his/her top ten accounts has been re-assigned or lost, or for any other reason which has a significant effect on the account executive's or outbound telesales representative's ability to meet their sales targets. Once the affected employee and that employee's direct manager/supervisor present their case to the DRC, they shall then be excused from the DRC deliberations.

The minutes of this committee meeting shall be made available upon request to the Union or to the employee involved.

Where a sales target is not resolved by the DRC, the matter will be referred to the Publisher or representative of the Publisher. (The Union reserves the right to grieve changes in quotas if they are considered to be disciplinary in nature.)

2. Sales targets shall be set by the end of January and by agreement between the account executive and outbound telesales representative and his/her manager. The current criteria used in helping to establish sales targets shall remain in place. When new advertising revenue that was not considered when setting targets comes into the territory, the sales manager may assign new targets.
3. a) Posting:
Where management posts an Account Executive position, the posting will indicate the value of the list and applicable commission plan. The successful candidate will accept the terms as posted.
4. Where an account executive or outbound telesales representative sees a loss of 10% or more of sales for uncontrollable reasons such as bankruptcies, mergers, collection accounts (where account executives are prevented from selling to these customers), government cutbacks from either a single or combination of accounts during the monthly target period, the account executive or outbound telesales representative shall have his or her sales target reduced by the dollar value of the sales of the said clients.

It is understood that the normal withdrawal of business advertising such as the transfer of advertising dollars to another media will not qualify as uncontrollable.

5. Prospective advertisers and/or accounts being redistributed shall be assigned to advertising sales representatives or outbound telesales representatives in a fair and equitable manner.

Where an account is withdrawn or reassigned, (at no fault of the Account Executive) the account executive will be compensated for the loss by an account or accounts with provable potential for volume approximately equal to the lost account or accounts.

6. No account executive or outbound telesales representative shall be required to reimburse earned commissions or have commissions adjusted on advertisements which have appeared incorrectly, when such employee can demonstrate that it was no fault of the account executive, or on accounts with advertisers that have gone bankrupt.

It is understood that account executives or outbound telesales representatives are required to follow current credit procedures. Similarly, it is also understood that account executives will encourage make goods where errors on ads have appeared.

7. The current practice of paying account executives or outbound telesales representatives' salary/draw plus commission while on vacation, recognized holidays and sickness shall remain in place.
8. It is understood that when an account executive is ill for longer than two months, the employee shall receive an average pay based on the prior six months, including the two months when the employee was off.
9. For outbound telesales representatives who are ill longer than one month, the employee shall receive an average pay based on the prior six months, including the one month the employee was off.
10. The Company will continue its practice of offering additional incentives on selected special sections, new products and sales promotions, when the Company decides to initiate such products.
11. If the Employer or the Union wishes to change the incentive plan they will meet with the Union to discuss the changes and cooperatively develop the new plan. If an agreement cannot be reached between the Union and the Employer, the old plan will remain in place.
12. Monthly quotas for inside telesales will be set by the first of each month. If a majority group of the Inside Telesales disagrees with the quota, such disagreement may be referred to the DRC.

Each of the three Account Executives on the Real Estate team will be paid commission based on the percentage the team, finishes to target each month. The two (2) outbound Telesales representatives will also be paid commission on the percentage their team finishes to target each month. The percentage will be applied to the individuals' sales targets to calculate their actual sales for the month for commission purposes.

The target for each of the teams will be based on the actual annual combined target set by management, divided equally by the number of Account Executives in Real Estate. Should the number of account executives or current incumbents change, this plan may be changed or adapted to meet the requirements of the business.
