Local 87-M History

Pay of $30 a week for six days of work, arbitrary firings, salary cuts, and ridiculous schedules. That's what brought the Guild to the newsrooms of Toronto in the Dirty Thirties. And since then, SONG has been working hard to get a better deal first for newspaper and now for all media employees.

It seems odd now, but in the 1930's, working Canadians looked south of the border when they wanted strong, dynamic and progressive union representation. For news industry employees, the obvious choice was the American Newspaper Guild, founded in 1933 by a man who was then one of the most well-known columnists in North America, Heywood Broun.

While skilled craft workers such as printers and press operators had long been organized at most major papers, the union idea was new to reporters, editors, advertising sales staff, and circulation and clerical workers.

But a small group of Toronto newsroom workers -- many of them women, who were only a small minority of editorial staffers in those days -- brought the American Newspaper Guild to Canada in September 1936 with the daunting task of organizing the newsrooms of the four Toronto dailies then publishing.

The new local was called the Toronto Newspaper Guild, Local 87 of the ANG, and its first decade was largely a story of failure. With legal protections weak, publishers were able to get away with subtle and not-so-subtle pressure tactics in order to prevent unions from taking root. Even at the Toronto Daily Star, known as a friend of labour (and founded by striking printers in the 1890s) an attempt in the early 40s to negotiate a contract collapsed after the company demoted known union supporters and engaged in the kind of blatant intimidation that is outlawed today. The ANG revoked the charter of the Toronto local in 1943.

But the need and desire for a union didn't die. In 1948, the Toronto Newspaper Guild was resurrected and was able to demonstrate majority support in the Star newsroom. That meant it could be certified by the Ontario Labour Relations Board under newly enacted labour laws, with the result that the company was obliged to bargain with the union. The new union's first president was Beland Honderich, later to become publisher and part-owner of the Star. Honderich set the tone for this new union when he wrote in the first issue of the local union's newsletter "We are now trade unionists...members of that great body of men and women who have been striving for years to improve the living standards of Canadian workers...A union, if it is to be successful, must be representative...it must be democratic..." Those goals continue to motivate this union.

After several months of bargaining, the Guild's first contract in Toronto and indeed the first ANG contract in Canada was signed in April, 1949, containing the milestone pay rate of $80 a week for reporters/photographers with five years of experience. The Star proclaimed itself on its news pages as the "first newspaper in Canada to establish the five-day, 40-hour week for editorial employees...it now becomes the first and only Toronto daily newspaper to pay its editorial workers time-and-a-half in cash for overtime."

The Guild was on its way. By 1953, the newsroom of the Toronto Telegram (a paper which eventually folded in 1971) was under Guild contract, and the Globe and Mail followed two years later. At the same time, other departments at the Star followed the newsroom into the union, so that the Guild soon represented advertising sales staff, circulation employees, delivery drivers and accounting clerks totaling almost 1300 members.

Other early Guild papers in Ontario were the Toronto edition of the Daily Racing Form, and the Brantford Expositor, whose mid-1950s unionization marked the local's first foray outside Toronto.

Employees made major gains in wages, benefits and working conditions in those early years, and were generally able to do it without having to resort to strike action. The very first strike in the young local's history took place at the Racing Form in July of 1951. It lasted all of 30 minutes. All 13 members went on strike when the employer refused to implement wage increases that had need negotiated. They returned to work with guarantees that all members would get their increases and they did. When the Guild's first major strike came, it was at a small paper, and it was a messy one.

Employees at the Thomson-owned Oshawa Times walked out in 1966 in a two-week strike that became one of the biggest Canadian labour battles of the era. While the strike involved only 35 employees, the courts granted a controversial injunction limiting picketing. That prompted a rebellion in the strong union town, and picket lines swelled to more than 1,000 with the support of other unions. When the local sheriff showed up to try to enforce the injunction, he was pelted with snowballs and beat a hasty retreat. Newspaper publishers were outraged, but the strike was settled very soon after. A second strike in Oshawa was also long and difficult in 1995 and created the local union's first strike paper operating in competition with the Times. At the end of the strike neither paper survived.

In 1955 the young local union had to confront the loss of one of its early activists and a former president A.O. (Alf) Tate, a Star photographer who was killed in a work accident. Tate and reporter Doug Cronk were assigned to report on a hurricane off the coast of Florida when their plane went missing. Their bodies were never found. The union honoured Tate by creating a journalism scholarship in his name. Originally, the scholarship was awarded to a needy grade 11 student who demonstrated ability and was selected by the Toronto School Board. Today the local maintains the A.O. Tate scholarship for a journalism student at Ryerson University in Toronto.

Fred Jones followed Tate as local union president. Jones left the local to work for the international union as a Canadian representative where he continued to work with local 87. He later returned to the local as Executive Secretary. His contribution to the union has also been recognized with an internal award. Every year a local activist is granted an educational subsidy in Jones' honour.

Co-operation between the Guild and other newspaper unions was one of the keys to the gains at the Toronto dailies in the 1950s, but the solidarity was strained in the wake of a disastrous strike by the printers (members of the International Typographical Union) in 1964. The printers at all three dailies took a stand against technological change, but Guild members continued working, and the papers continued publishing with the help of strikebreakers. The unionized printers never went back to work.

The late '60s and the 1970s were a more stable period for the union, as the Guild settled into perhaps a too-cozy relationship with the newspaper companies. Organizing of new groups was given little priority. The union, recognizing it was more than just a Toronto organization, changed its name in the late 70s to Southern Ontario Newspaper Guild, but made no serious effort to expand. The parent union, recognizing it had members outside the United States, changed its name from American Newspaper Guild to The Newspaper Guild. The early 1970s also saw the first major stirrings of Canadian nationalism within the union, as the Toronto Guild pressed with only minimal success for more Canadian autonomy within the international structure.

The local also had stable leadership through these years. Jack Dobson of the Globe and Mail served 8 terms as local president from 1959 through 1966 when he resigned to become a local union staff representative. Later, John Lowe of the Star led the union for 9 terms from 1976 through 1984. While a woman was not president until 1989 when Gail Lem was first elected, women played a key role in the union and its executive from the earliest days. Star reporter Judith Robinson was part of the 1939 organizing committee and women like Lillian Thain and Nadia Bozinoff also of the Star, Isabel Greenwood and Jean Pakenham of the Telegram and Margaret Daly of the Star all made fundamental contributions to the union's successes.

The 1980s saw a shakeup at SONG, as new officers were elected with a mandate to organize more workplaces and take a more aggressive approach to negotiations.

At the bargaining table this new approach saw the Guild's first strike ever at the Toronto Star, in 1983. The 1,500 SONG members were off the job for only four days, including a weekend, but the strike marked a turning point, and companies got the message that they couldn't take the union for granted. Meanwhile at the Globe and Mail, Guild employees took their first ever strike vote in 1982, also marking a new era in relations with the company. Those negotiations ended without a strike, and the Globe unit of SONG still has a strike-free record.

Organizing took off in the early '80s, with the Hamilton Spectator newsroom joining SONG and with the landmark organizing drive at Maclean's magazine, where editorial staff went on strike for two weeks in 1983 and gained their first contract. Maclean's part-time employees joined the union in 2005 and these two groups represent the only unionized operations in the Rogers Publishing empire. The Globe and Mail's outside circulation department and advertising staff also went union.

With those successes, news industry workers saw the benefits of unionization. By the mid-80s, editorial employees at the Metroland chain of non-daily papers joined SONG and bargained a contract that is seen as the pace-setter in the community newspaper sector. Soon employees of other non-dailies sought out SONG, and the union was expanding rapidly.

In the late 1980's, two of the largest non-union newsrooms in the province -- the London Free Press and Kitchener-Waterloo Record --joined SONG. This was followed by organizing at a number of small Thomson-owned papers. Following long and bitter -- but successful -- first-contract strikes at Thomson papers in Guelph and Cambridge, SONG was able to organize employees at Thomson outlets in Belleville, Chatham, Niagara Falls and Midland. Contracts at all these papers made major improvements in wages.

The 1980's also saw a move for the Guild offices to its current home at 1253 Queen St. E., just east of Leslie St. In 1984, SONG purchased the two-storey former Target air conditioning and heating contractor building for $170,000. With the rapid expansion of membership and units, the former quarters on the ground floor and basement of a townhouse at 219 Jarvis St. had become cramped.

Despite layoffs and hiring freezes at many papers during the 1990s, SONG's membership continued to grow through organizing.

But throughout the period of expansion in the 1990's, the leadership of SONG became increasingly frustrated with the lack of attention and service that the Newspaper Guild's Washington head office was providing to Canadians. After a long and unsuccessful campaign for more Canadian autonomy within the Guild international, SONG members voted in 1994 to sever ties with The Newspaper Guild. Shortly afterwards, SONG affiliated with the Communications, Energy and Paperworkers Union of Canada (CEP), and is now Local 87-M of the CEP. The CEP is an all-Canadian union with more than 150,000 members and Canada's largest media union.

The Guild and the Star again did battle in 1992 during a one-month strike over the company's plans to contract-out its delivery department. The strike failed to stop the company's plans, but got a better deal for the laid-off employees.

In 1996, SONG's long-time president, Gail Lem of the Globe and Mail unit, was elected as the CEP's national vice-president of media, the top officer for the CEP's 15,000-strong media section, representing employees in print and broadcast across Canada. She was followed in that post by Peter Murdoch who is a former Hamilton Spectator reporter and SONG representative.

Despite restrictive labour laws passed by the Conservative government elected in Ontario in 1995, SONG has continued to organize, bringing in employees of ethnic community newspapers at Sing Tao Daily, Share, the Korea Times and the World Journal. In early 2002 a further 350 employees of the London Free Press chose union representation with SONG. Their Quebecor cousins in the Toronto Sun newsroom joined up in early 2003, followed closely by the Local's first broadcasting bargaining units at CHUM's New PL/WI/NX now known as the A Channel and Corus. Soon after pre-press employees at the Toronto Sun and editorial employees at the Ottawa Sun chose SONG. In addition, employees at the Stratford Beacon Herald advertising department and the Simcoe Reformer and the free daily Metro have joined SONG. By 2004, the Local represented media workers in newspapers, magazines, book publishing, television and specialty broadcasting, radio and internet: in recognition of this diversity, we changed the name of our Local to the Southern Ontario News*media* Guild.

In 2008, SONG expanded in a big way to the Ottawa area where we'd already organized the Ottawa Sun. Beginning in January, we added seven media units from the former Local 102-O, including the House of Commons broadcast/technical group, the Ottawa Citizen mailroom, the Winchester Press, the Glengarry News, the Pembroke Observer, TelAv and ELC. We now represent about 4,000 workers in all aspects of the media in Ontario and 35 different workplaces. The local and its members confront daily issues of media concentration, editorial integrity, contracting out, job security, pensions and the declining circulation of paid daily newspapers.

The local has had, and continues to have, success in supporting its members on these issues because of the willingness of members to volunteer their time and use their energy and creativity. Some take time from their careers to work full-time as local president or on local staff. In addition, the local has been well served by the dedication of its staff hired from outside the membership. Men and women who have spent countless hours in the negotiation and administration of collective agreements and ensuring the infrastructure of the local functioned on a day-today basis.

Look elsewhere on our website, www.song.on.ca, for examples of SONG contracts which set out wages, vacations, hours of work, overtime and many other workplace issues. The site also provides the names of the dedicated local officers and staff who have served this union since its formation.

The plan will cover up to a maximum of 26 weeks disability.
- (e) Notwithstanding Article 8(i), the benefit plans and coverage listed above in this Article 11 shall be made available to an employee until the employee attains the age of sixty-five (65). - (c) Grievance Procedure

Either party may initiate a grievance. If a grievance is not settled at either stage of the grievance procedure, then the grieving party shall have the alternative either to abandon it or proceed to the next successive stage within the time limits set out in each stage. By mutual agreement between the Employer and the Union and in the case of an Employer or a Union grievance, the processing of any grievance may begin at the second stage. The successive stages of the grievance procedure are:

i) First Stage

If the two (2) parties are unable to resolve the oral complaint, then within fifteen (15) days of the oral meeting, the Union shall grieve the matter in writing with the employee's department manager, stating the name of the grievor, as well as the sections of the agreement alleged to have been violated. The answer to the first stage grievance shall be given in writing within ten (10) days of receipt of the grievance.

ii) Second Stage

If the two (2) parties are unable to agree at the first stage, then within fifteen (15) days of an answer at the first stage, the Union shall take up the grievance in writing with the Publisher (or his/her representative). The answer to the second stage grievance must be given with ten (10) days of receipt of the second stage grievance.

(d) Final Stage - Arbitration

- i) If the two (2) parties are unable to agree at the second stage, then within fifteen (15) days of receipt of an answer at the second stage, the grieving party shall notify the other party, in writing, of its intention to take the grievance to arbitration.

In general, it is intended that grievances which are not resolved at the second stage shall be submitted to a single arbitrator; however, either party may elect to submit a grievance to an Arbitration Board of three members, in which case the other party shall comply.

ii) Single Arbitration

In the event that a grievance is to be adjudicated by a single arbitrator, the parties to the Agreement shall attempt to agree on an Arbitrator as soon as the grieving party has submitted notice, in writing, of its decision to proceed to arbitration. If the parties cannot agree, the Arbitrator shall be appointed by the Ontario Minister of Labour. The Arbitrator shall proceed as soon as practical to examine the grievance and render his/her judgment, and his/her decision shall be final and binding upon the parties and upon any employee affected by it.

iii) Arbitration Board

If the grievance is to be adjudicated by an Arbitration Board of three (3) members, the grieving party shall notify the other party in writing of its desire to submit the grievance to arbitration and the notice shall contain the name of the grieving party's appointee to the Arbitration Board. The recipient of the notice shall within five (5) days advise the other party of the name of his/her appointee to the Arbitration Board. The two (2) appointees so selected shall, within five (5) days of the appointment of the second of them, appoint a third person who shall be the Chairperson. If the two (2) appointees fail to agree upon a Chairperson within the time limit, the appointment shall be made by the Ontario Minister of Labour, upon the request of either party. The Arbitration Board shall proceed as soon as practical to examine the grievance and render its judgment, and its decision shall be final and binding on the parties and upon any employee affected by it. The decision of the majority shall be the decision of the Arbitration Board, but if there is no majority, the decision of the Chairperson shall govern. Each party shall pay the fees and expenses of its appointee to a Board and one half (1/2) the fees and expenses of the Chairperson, or single arbitrator. Expenses will include any disbursements incurred by the arbitrators during their proceedings.

(e) Time Limits

It is intended that grievances shall be processed as quickly as possible. Time limits are mandatory and not directory. If the grieving party does not appeal the grievance to the next successive stage within the specified appeal time limit, the grievance shall be deemed to be abandoned and shall not thereafter be reinstated. If the responding party does not answer the grievance within the specified answer time limit for each stage, the grievance shall automatically proceed to the next higher stage.

Notwithstanding the above, the appeal and answer time limits as specified may be extended by mutual agreement.

ARTICLE 15 - LEAVES OF ABSENCE

- (a) Any employee may submit a written request to the Employer for leave of absence without pay specifying the reason for and duration of the leave. Requests will not be unreasonably denied but will be given due consideration based on their merits and the requirements of operations. For the first three (3) months of a leave, the Employer shall maintain benefits under Article 11. Following that, benefits may be maintained for an additional three (3) months at the employee's expense.

Bereavement Leave

- (b) (i) When death occurs in the immediate family of an employee, if said employee attends the funeral he/she will incur no loss of pay for five (5) consecutive days from the date of death. The members of the immediate family include mother, father, spouse and children.

- (ii) When death occurs in the family of an employee, if said employee attends the funeral he/she will incur no loss of pay for three (3) consecutive days from date of death for father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, brother, sister, grandparents and grandchildren. If one or more regular non-work days occur during that three day period, the employee shall be entitled up to three (3) days absence from work with pay for the purpose of attending the funeral.
- (iii) In the application of clause (ii) above, when death occurs outside a 500 kilometre radius of St. Catharines, five (5) consecutive days will be granted. Any days that are not scheduled working days within the five (5) consecutive day period will not be paid.
- (iv) Employees shall be allowed four (4) hours off with pay when serving as a pallbearer at a funeral not involving a bereavement covered in the paragraphs above. Twenty-four (24) hours notice must be given to the Manager or Supervisor for this time to be granted.
- (v) The term “spouse” in paragraph 15 (B) (i) above shall be defined in accordance with Section 29 of the Family Law Act. Where those criteria are met the term “common-law spouse” “and same sex partner”, will have the same effect as the term “spouse”.

Parental Leave

- (c) Pregnancy and parental leave shall be granted in accordance with the Employment Standards Act.

Jury Duty

- (d) The Employer shall pay to each employee called to serve on a jury, or when subpoenaed to serve as a crown witness, with the exception of matters relating to labour relations, the difference between a day’s pay or each day up to five (5) days a week that the employee is absent from work and the total sum paid to the employee for such service. An employee excused from jury duty on any given day shall report for work. A night shift employee called for such service shall not be required to work on the day or days so spent.

Union Leave

- (e)
 - i) If an employee is elected or appointed to a position in the CEP, or local of the CEP, such an employee upon the employee’s request, shall be given a leave of absence without pay. Leaves of absence, upon request, without pay, for the purpose of participating in other meetings relating to the business of the CEP, for not more than a total of two (2) weeks in any one (1) year, will be granted, provided such absence would not unreasonably interfere with the efficient operation of the Employer's business.
 - iii) An employee granted a leave of absence for more than six (6) weeks in a calendar year under Article 15(e) i or 15 (e) ii shall not accumulate seniority while on such leave of absence but shall retain all seniority accumulated prior to the start of such leave.
- (f) An employee granted a leave of absence in accordance with (a) above shall, except for advancement on the wage grid, accumulate seniority for up to six months while on such leave of absence. The employee shall retain all seniority accumulated prior to the start of such leave. Notwithstanding the above, an employee on pregnancy leave or parental leave shall accumulate seniority for the full duration of the leave.

ARTICLE 16 - JOB SECURITY

- (a) (i) When it is determined by the Employer that a reduction in the work force is necessary, not less than four (4) calendar weeks notice shall be given to the Union and the employees affected. The notice to the Union shall specify the job classification(s) and the number of employees involved. At the request of either party, the Employer and the Union shall meet during the notice period to discuss possible alternatives to the layoff. Employees shall be laid off in reverse order of seniority in each classification provided those remaining are qualified to perform the work required.
 - (ii) During the notice period specified in Article 16(a)(i) above, the Employer shall consider voluntary resignations or job sharing requests from employees in the classifications involved. If a voluntary resignation is accepted, such employees shall receive severance pay outlined in Article 17. The number of employees to be laid off shall be reduced accordingly. It is understood that employees voluntarily resigning will thereby waive their rights to recall.
- (b) If there is a layoff, the employee(s) affected may choose, in order of seniority, within two (2) weeks of notice, to bump employees with less seniority. Full-time employees may bump other full-time employees or part-time employees; and part-time employees may bump other part-time employees or full-time employees

- provided they have more seniority than the employee they choose to bump. Employees who choose to bump may bump either those with less seniority in the same classification or those with less seniority in a classification where they have demonstrated their ability to competently perform the work required. An employee who chooses not to bump shall receive severance pay in accordance with this agreement.
- (c) An employee displaced under clause (b) above may elect under the same criteria, within two weeks, to bump into another classification in which he/she is competent to perform the work.
 - (d) Notwithstanding any other clause in this article, an employee who bumps into a lower classification shall be paid the top minimum for that classification. However, where this would result in a raise in pay, the employee's salary shall stay the same.
 - (e) Laid-off employees, or those who bumped into lower classifications, shall be placed on a recall list in order of seniority and the Employer shall fill vacancies according to that list. A laid-off employee may refuse to accept temporary work without his or her recall rights being affected, and a laid-off full-time employee may refuse to accept part-time work without his or her recall rights being affected. A laid off part-time employee may refuse full-time work without his or her recall rights being affected. Laid off employees shall be removed from the recall list when their seniority is lost as outlined in Article 18(b).
 - (f) During a layoff, seniority will be frozen. If the employee is recalled to regular employment, seniority will be restored to the frozen level. An employee on the recall list shall have the option of buying group life insurance (for three (3) months only) and medical and dental benefits for the period he/she is on the list.
 - (g) Notice of recall shall be sent to the employee by registered mail, with a copy to the union office at the same time by registered mail.
 - (h) Except in the case of a change in classification, there shall be no pay rate reductions for any employee during the term of this collective agreement.
 - (i) For employees who have completed their probationary period, there shall be no discipline, suspension or dismissal except for just and sufficient cause.
 - (j) Employees shall be trained at the Employer's expense to use new technology and methods in their work.
 - (k) The Employer shall notify the Union at least six weeks in advance of the introduction of major changes in equipment or technology used by it in its operations. During this period, on the request of either party, the parties shall meet to discuss the impact of such changes. Where such a change in equipment or technology causes the elimination of positions, the Employer shall offer, to affected employees, retraining for job vacancies within the bargaining unit. Where no job vacancies exist or where the employee cannot be retrained within a reasonable period of time, the Employer may lay off staff in accordance with this article.

- (l) In the event that the Employer creates a new bargaining unit job classification, the Union and the Employer agree to negotiate the wage rate for the new job classification. Where agreement cannot be reached the issue of the wage rate shall be referred to the grievance and arbitration procedure.

ARTICLE 17 - SEVERANCE PAY

- (a) An employee who has completed his/her probationary period and who is terminated as a result of a staff reduction shall receive severance pay in the amount of two (2) weeks' pay for each year of service or major fraction thereof, with a maximum of thirty-six (36) weeks pay.

Effective January 1, 2009, the maximum will increase to thirty-eight (38) weeks. Effective January 1, 2010, the maximum will increase to forty (40) weeks.

The time limits referred to above may be extended by mutual agreement of the Union and the Employer.

- (b) Temporary employees shall not be used to reduce, displace or eliminate full-time employees or part-time employees.

 - i) an employee who is regularly scheduled to work twenty-eight (28) hours or less per week;
 - ii) an employee whose hours of work may fluctuate from day to day or week to week and average twenty-eight (28) hours or less per week;
 - iii) interns.

It is understood that there is no guarantee of daily or weekly hours for any part-time employee.

2. Part-time employees shall not be used to eliminate full-time employees.
3. Part-time employees shall be covered by all provisions of this agreement except where specifically provided otherwise in the agreement or in this Addendum.
4. The probationary period shall be three months.
5. A part-time employee may work as a full-time employee temporarily to cover a vacation or absence under this agreement without affecting his or her part-time status. Part-time employees will be considered for work within the city of St. Catharines before a free-lancer providing they have the skill and ability to complete the assignment.
 - (i) Starting hourly rates for part-time employees shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Article 27 (d) of this agreement.
 - (ii) Interns on placements of one month or more shall be paid no less than the start rate for the appropriate classification. In all other cases, payments if any, for interns shall be determined on an individual basis.
7. A part-time employee shall advance on the salary grid according to actual hours worked.
8. Part-time employees who work more than their scheduled hours shall be paid at the straight time rate for hours worked, and at the overtime rate when the daily hours worked exceed seven and one half (7-1/2) hours or when the total hours worked in the week exceed thirty-seven and a half (37-1/2) hours.

9. A part-time employee who becomes a full-time employee will have a seniority date established on the basis of full time equivalence, with service credit given for the number of hours worked prior to becoming a full-time employee.
10. Vacation pay shall be paid on the following basis:

1 year	4%
2 years	6%
9 years	8%

Vacation pay shall be paid each pay period or vacation pay period at the option of the employee.

11. The following days shall be recognized as paid holidays: New Year's Day, Family Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Canada Day, Civic Holiday, Labour Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day and Boxing Day. Statutory holiday pay shall be calculated in accordance with the criteria as defined in the Employment Standards Act of Ontario.
12. For purposes of calculating severance pay for part-time employees, service will be calculated on the basis of full-time equivalence.

15. Part-time employees shall be scheduled for shifts of at least four (4) hours.
16. (i) In the event of a layoff, the seniority for a part-time employee shall be converted to full time equivalent seniority by adding together all the straight time hours worked by the part-time employee and dividing by seven and one-half (7.5) to determine the number of normal working shifts, which will determine the regular full-time equivalence of such part-time hours, assuming five (5) normal working shifts per week. Having calculated the full-time equivalence, the employee shall be awarded accordingly, a new seniority date. (e.g., a part-time employee who worked one (1) full shift each week for five (5) years would be awarded the equivalent of one (1) year of regular full-time seniority and his or her seniority date would be amended to reflect this full-time equivalence.

- (ii) During a layoff, seniority will be frozen. If the employee is recalled to regular employment, seniority will be restored to the frozen level.

LETTER OF AGREEMENT #4 - Marlene Bergsma

It is agreed that Ms. Marlene Bergsma shall retain (except as otherwise negotiated) all her current medical, dental, life insurance, short-term disability and long-term disability coverages, personal days and vacation entitlement.

LETTER OF AGREEMENT #5 - Negotiating Days

The current practice of remunerating bargaining committee members for negotiating days shall continue. Employees shall not suffer a loss of wages for negotiations during regular working hours and the union shall reimburse the employer within 30 days of being invoiced.

It is the general expectation that preparation for bargaining will be done outside of regular business hours. However, the employer will consider providing preparation time off during regular business hours when it cannot be avoided. This consideration shall be subject to operational requirements and reimbursement by the union as outlined above.
